AUTUMN QUARTER 2017

Undergraduate level courses

B H

402 Ethical Theory (5) I&S (11124)
Studies the major normative ethical theories, including both teleological and deontological approaches. Emphasizes moral philosophy during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, as well as contemporary commentary. Recommended: one basic course in ethics. Offered: jointly with PHIL 412.

Jecker T TH 12:30-2:20 pm HSB BB1602

456 Social Justice and Health (5) I&S (11125)
Examines the moral grounds for the view that social inequalities in health are unjust using contemporary literature from moral philosophy and bioethics, case studies, and film. Explores basic questions integral to determinations of social injustice as well as moral constraints on the pursuit of health equity.

Blacksher T TH 10:30-12:50 pm SOCC 303

499 Undergraduate Research (Varied Credit) I&S (11126)
To be determined. - http://depts.washington.edu/bhdept/acapro/minor.html#IS
Instructor to be assigned based on project

Graduate level courses

B H

502 Ethical Theory (5) (11127)
Studies the major normative ethical theories, including both teleological and deontological approaches. Emphasizes moral philosophy during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, as well as contemporary commentary. Recommended: one basic course in ethics. Offered: jointly with PHIL 412.

Jecker T TH 12:30-2:20 pm HSB BB1602
Legal, Ethical, and Social Issues in Public Health Genetics (3) (11129)
Equips the student to anticipate and assess potential legal, ethical, and social barriers complicating the incursion of new genetic advances, information, and technologies into public and private healthcare delivery efforts. Prerequisite: GENOME 361, GENOME 371, or equivalent. Offered: jointly with LAW H 504/PHG 512; A.
LOCHNER DOYLE M W 12:00-1:50 pm SOCC 342

Social Justice and Health (5) (11131)
Examines the moral grounds for the view that social inequalities in health are unjust using contemporary literature from moral philosophy and bioethics, case studies, and film. Explores basic questions integral to determinations of social injustice as well as moral constraints on the pursuit of health equity.
Blacksher T TH 10:30-12:50 pm SOCC 303

Master's Research Project ([1-12]-, max. 6) (11132)
Research project culminating in a scholarly paper suitable for publication in a peer-reviewed journal. Majors only. Credit/no-credit only.
To be arranged

Independent Study/Research (*varies) (11133)
Research project culminating in a scholarly paper suitable for publication in a peer-reviewed journal. Majors only. Credit/no-credit only.
To be arranged

FOR ENTRY CODES: Email: bhadds@uw.edu

To be added to the listserv for B H minors, visit https://mailman13.u.washington.edu/mailman/listinfo/bh_minor
For advising, email bhadvise@uw.edu
Are you interested in receiving information about bioethics events, lectures, discussions, and news of interest? Visit https://mailman13.u.washington.edu/mailman/listinfo/bioethics to subscribe to our bioethics listserv.