Teaching Responsibilities

- 1997--2009 General Studies 197: Providing Care: Ethics and Society Policy of Health Care
 The objective of this seminar is to introduce the student to the diversity of ethical and social issues within health care provision. The course focuses on equity access and triage, denial, privacy and compulsory care. Freshman only.
- 1994–2005 MEDEX 457,458,459: Behavioral Science
 The course is designed to prepare physician assistant students to recognize and become more comfortable with the medical and psychological problems that bring patients to the medical setting. The students are expected to become competent in assessing and managing primary care behavioral science issues.
- 1997–1999 Health Sciences Interdisciplinary Clinical Education
Course Title: Clinical Seminar at Harborview Medical Center
 This course is sponsored by the Health Sciences Interdisciplinary Clinical Education (HSICE) team, a project funded through the University of Washington initiative process. This is an interactive seminar on selected topics with emphasis on team development including perspectives of hospital and community based care.
- 1999–2000 HSERV 515: Health Care and Society
 Small group facilitator. Facilitator organizes students to present material on a weekly basis and evaluate their organizational, ability to cover learning objectives, conclusions and summary points.

- 2000-2012 Problem Based Learning Program 550 tutor, School of Medicine
Provides an interprofessional group of students the ability to problem-solve cases of real patients. The tutor acts a guide and encourages active student participation. The tutor encourages discussion of the problem, determination of the known and unknown information and helps students determine their own learning needs.
- 2005-Present Biomedical Research Integrity Program Discussion Group Leader
The BRI program meets the PHS requirement for instruction in the Responsible Conduct of Research in National Research Service Award Institutional Training Grants (NIH Guide, 1994). The program covers the following topics (representing five of the seven required topics) described in the NIH Guide: Conflict of interest, Data acquisition and ownership, Peer review, Responsible authorship, Research misconduct
- 2010-Present MEDEX 471/571 Professional Role Development
Seattle Course Coordinator. The MEDEX Professional Role Development Course is intended to provide students with background on the PA profession, which will be helpful in preparing them to function in their new role as physician assistants emphasizes preparation for the care of diverse patient populations, particularly those for whom access to care is an issue.
- 2013-Present Interprofessional Education (IPE) program

Provides an interprofessional group of students the ability to problem-solve cases of real patients. The tutor acts a guide and encourages active student participation.
