What people are saying about CCPH...

CCPH has become an icon for service-learning and community-based participatory research. The networking opportunities and system of sharing knowledge & information are priceless.

— Alex Allen, Vice President, Community Planning & Research, Isles, Inc., Trenton, NJ

I've attended a lot of professional education meetings and without question, the CCPH Service-Learning Institute was the most valuable both in terms of what I personally and professional gained from it. The benefits far exceeded the costs.

— Mary Ann Herlitzke, Physical Therapist Assistant Program, Western Wisconsin Technical College, La Crosse, WI

CCPH has helped me improve my relationship with our partners. That is probably the most beneficial part of my membership. I plan on being a lifetime member of CCPH!

— Ruth Nemire, Director of Clinical Education, College of Pharmacy, Nova Southeastern University, Plantation, FL

Community-Campus Partnerships for Health is a nonprofit organization that promotes health (broadly defined) through partnerships between communities and higher educational institutions.

Founded in 1996, CCPH is a growing network of over 1,000 communities and campuses from across North America and increasingly the world who are working to improve the health of communities through service-learning, community-based participatory research, broad-based coalitions and other community-academic partnership strategies. These partnerships are powerful tools for improving health professional education, civic engagement and the overall health of communities.

CCPH members are a diverse group of individuals and organizations affiliated with colleges and universities, community-based organizations, health care delivery systems, student service organizations, foundations and government. What ties us together is our commitment to social justice and our passion for the power of partnerships to transform communities and academe.

CCPH is the most inclusive network of people and information on community-campus partnerships that I have ever found.

—Georgia L. Narsavage, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs & Professor of Nursing, Medical College of Georgia, Augusta, GA

- Be the first to hear about funding opportunities and other important news
- Pursue professional development at discounted rates
- Receive useful publications and resource materials - for free or at a discount
- Access low cost, high quality training and technical assistance
- Influence policies that affect community-campus partnerships
- Connect with colleagues who share your passion for partnerships and social justice

The CCPH Consultancy Network provides customized training and technical assistance to community organizations, colleges and universities, professional associations and grantee networks. CCPH consultants are “real life” practitioners who have experience in the full scope of community-campus partnerships and can lead workshops and give presentations on:

- Service-learning courses & programs
- Community-based participatory research
- Community-engaged scholarship
- Partnership assessment & improvement
- Grant writing & fundraising
- And much more!

I was actively seeking a membership organization that supports community development when I discovered CCPH. It is the only one I have found that provides global opportunities for networking and sharing of best practices!

—Jennifer Churchill, Director, Community Development, York Region Health Services, Newmarket, Ontario

The CCPH conference is our premier event for networking and professional development.

CCPH conferences emphasize inclusion, experiential learning and subsequent action. Outcomes have included principles of good practice, policy recommendations, and new approaches to partnerships. CCPH conferences feature:

- Dynamic keynotes, skill-building workshops, informative posters & exhibits, inspiring community site visits, and opportunities to speak with funding agency representatives
- Venues to network with over 500 participants with diverse knowledge and experience
- Opportunities to share your skills & lessons learned

CCPH regularly sponsors training institutes.

Our training with a CCPH consultant was so impressive that we invited her back.

—Vickie Ybarra, Director, Planning & Development, Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic, Yakima, WA

Training institutes in service-learning, community-based participatory research and community-engaged scholarship are regularly sponsored by CCPH. These feature:

- Experiential and didactic approaches to teaching and learning
- A unique mentoring model in which participants work in small groups and as individuals with leaders in the field to shape their own learning and action plans

Our Information Clearinghouse keeps you informed. Tap into a wealth of resources through CCPH!

- CCPH Website — a treasure trove of resources to support community-campus partnerships. Web pages devoted to Funding Opportunities; Awards & Fellowships; and Calls for Papers & Presentations are updated regularly
- Partnership Matters Newsletter — this selective compilation of time-sensitive news is emailed to members every other week
- Electronic Discussion Groups — interactive listservs that provide helpful resources and answers to frequently asked questions

My position in health professions education leads me to belong to several professional organizations. My membership in CCPH is by far the most rewarding, professionally and personally.

—Chuck Conner, Site Coordinator, West Virginia Rural Health Education Partnerships, Spencer, WV

- Publications – resource guides, fact sheets and reports that highlight the latest trends, promising practices and practical solutions
- Monthly Member Highlights — helps you stay connected to CCPH events, activities and opportunities for involvement
- CCPH Staff — staff are knowledgeable, helpful and responsive to your requests
