<http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/members.html#BecomeAMember>

1. Join CCPH by Dec 31 & Save Money! CCPH hasn't raised our membership fees in over 4 years. Join between now and Dec 31 to lock in 2010 prices. Also, all contributions to CCPH are tax-deductible to the extent allowable by law. As CCPH member Wanda Gonsalves from the Medical University of South Carolina observes, "I've been a CCPH member since 1999 and it is one of the few organizations where you actually get more than your money's worth."
2. Register for the Community-University Partnerships Conference at a 20% Discount! In lieu of our own conference next year, CCPH is fully supporting the Canadian-led CU Expo, "Community-University Partnerships: From Global Perspectives to Local Action," May 10-14, 2011 in Waterloo Region, ON. Over 350 proposals submitted from 27 countries are being reviewed now. Registration opens on Dec 6. Details at <http://www.cuexpo2011.ca>
3. Subscribe to Progress in Community Health Partnerships (PCHP) at a 50%+ Discount! Effective today, CCPH members can subscribe to PCHP at a savings of over 50%, with a special renewal rate! Published by Johns Hopkins University Press, PCHP is "the" journal for community-based participatory research and other community-academic partnerships aimed at improving health. The journal publishes not only traditional articles but policy briefs, podcasts with authors and more! For details, visit <http://bit.ly/q4Vcxp>

Diverse Products of Community-Engaged Work Focused on Immigrant & Refugee Health Due TODAY! In Spring 2011, CES4Health.info is publishing a themed set of products based on community-engaged work focused on immigrant and refugee health. Products could include, for example, photovoice exhibits, policy briefs, online toolkits, educational videos and podcasts. See "hot topics" at CES4Health.info for details! Please note that CES4Health.info considers submissions on a rolling basis if you miss the deadline for this particular themed set of products!

CCPH Annual Award Nominations Due Feb 4! The award highlights the power and potential of community-campus partnerships as a strategy for social justice. Self-nominations in English are welcome from anywhere in the world. The award will be presented at the CCPH supported conference, "Community-University Partnerships: From Global Perspectives to Local Action," May 10-14, 2011 in Waterloo Region, ON, Canada. Nomination guidelines and information on past award winners are posted at <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/awards.html>

A QUESTION FOR YOU!

Have you used the online curriculum, Developing & Sustaining CBPR Partnerships? If so, we want to hear from you! The curriculum, freely available at <http://bit.ly/fOf1HO>, was launched in 2006 and remains one of our most downloaded resources! We'd like to gather examples of how people have used the curriculum and what their experiences with it have been. Have you consulted it for information, have you incorporated into a CBPR course, have you adapted it for a training workshop, have you cited it in a grant proposal, etc? We're eager to learn about all the ways it's being used and will post a summary on the curriculum website (with contact details only if you'd like to be identified). Write us at ccphirb@u.washington.edu

CATCH UP WITH CCPH AT EVENTS THIS MONTH

CCPH Presentations Advance Community-Based Participatory Research (CBPR) Ethics. CCPH executive director Sarena Seifer and CCPH senior consultant Nancy Shore have three sessions on CBPR ethics at the Public Responsibility in Medicine & Research conference, Dec 6-8 in San Diego: a poster, "Understanding the Relationships between Community-Based Processes for Research Ethics Review & Institution-based IRBs," (<http://bit.ly/arUqgn>), a workshop based on the curriculum for IRBs on community-engaged research and a panel on CBPR ethics. For more information on CCPH's CBPR ethics projects, email ccphirb@u.washington.edu and subscribe to the CBPR ethics listserv at <http://mailman2.u.washington.edu/mailman/listinfo/ccph-ethics>. For more information about the conference, visit <http://www.primr.org/>

CBPR in Healthy Aging. CCPH consultants Sheryl Zimmerman and Karen Love are leading a one-day workshop and consultation on CBPR in healthy aging at Washington State University on Dec 10 in Spokane, WA. They will be drawing on the experiences of their CBPR partnerships and their co-authored "Manual for CBPR Using Research to Improve Practice and Inform Policy in Assisted Living," published through <http://www.CES4Health.info>. The CCPH Consultancy Network is available for customized on-site training and technical assistance on a wide range of topics that pertain to community-campus partnerships. For more information, visit <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/mentor.html> or email ccphirb@u.washington.edu

NEWS FROM CCPH

Special Journal Discount for CCPH Members! Effective December 1, 2010, CCPH members can subscribe to Progress in Community Health Partnerships (PCHP) at a savings of over 50%, with a special renewal rate! Published by Johns Hopkins University Press, PCHP is "the" journal for community-based participatory research and other community-academic partnerships aimed at improving health. For details, visit <http://bit.ly/g4VcXP>

Proposals are due Jan 4 for CCPH co-sponsored 2nd International Institute on Partnerships, May 23-25 at Portland State University. The theme is "From Reciprocity to Collective Transformation: Achieving the Potential of Community-Campus Partnerships." Learn more at <http://bit.ly/caNqqW>

New from CES4Health.info: Participatory Planning & Service-Learning for Small Town Revitalization! We're delighted to announce the latest products peer-reviewed & published through CES4Health.info, described below. CES4Health.info is an online mechanism for peer-reviewing, publishing and disseminating diverse products of community-engaged scholarship (CES). The published products are two documents and a brochure from a collaborative project between Penn State University's Hamer Center for Community Design, Landscape Architecture, and the Sunbury, PA community that contributed to a downtown revitalization master plan. They demonstrate an innovative approach to community engagement around the built environment and liveable communities. For details, visit <http://www.CES4Health.info>

FOR YOUR CALENDARS...

CCPH 15th Anniversary Conference, April 18-21, 2012 in Houston, TX! Mark your calendars now and plan to join us for 4 days of skill-building, networking and agenda-setting! Our major conference partner is St. Luke's Episcopal Health Charities, the area's largest charity focused solely on health and well-being and also celebrating its 15th anniversary. The call for proposals will be released in Spring/Summer 2011 with a Fall 2011 deadline. We welcome your suggestions for the conference theme, planning committee members, cosponsors & exhibitors. Email us at ccphirb@u.washington.edu
