

CCPH E-News: January 2005

Dear Colleague,

Below are highlights for Community-Campus Partnerships for Health (CCPH) in the month of January. We hope this helps you stay better connected to our events and activities. Happy new year from everyone here at CCPH!

Although we have been saddened by the recent earthquake-tsunami catastrophe in South Asia that has devastated the lives of so many, our spirits have been buoyed by the outpouring of resources and support to address the resulting global health needs. We encourage you to provide any assistance you can. For a listing of some of the local and national organizations accepting donations, please visit: <http://www.nytimes.com/2004/12/28/international/28aidbox.html>

NEW AT CCPH

*CCPH Announces Community-Engaged Scholarship for Health Collaborative. Funded by a three-year grant from the U.S. Department of Education's Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education, the Collaborative is comprised of a diverse group of ten health professional schools that seek to recognize and reward community engagement as central to the role of faculty members at their own institutions and nationally. To read the full press release and learn more about this exciting new initiative, please visit "what's new" at www.ccpb.info

CCPH welcomes suggestions of key articles, reports, people and programs that can inform the Collaborative's work. Questions and suggestions may be sent to program director Jen Kauper-Brown at jenbr@u.washington.edu

Stay connected with the project and related work through the Community-Engaged Scholarship electronic discussion group at <https://mailman1.u.washington.edu/mailman/listinfo/comm-engagedscholarship>

* Theme Journal Issue on Community-Based Participatory Research Around the World. The November 2004 issue of the international Journal of Interprofessional Care is focused on the theme of community-based participatory research. Visit <http://journalonline.tandf.co.uk/link.asp?id=WP6TA2TN1HAJ> for the table of contents and abstracts. CCPH executive director Sarena D. Seifer and program director Jen Kauper-Brown served as issue co-editors. Seifer and CCPH senior consultant Diane Calleson co-authored a paper in the issue on "Health professional faculty perspectives on community-based research: implications for policy and practice." The article can be downloaded at <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/commbas.html#JournalArticles>

* The archive, presentations and handouts are now available from the Dec. 2 webconference on Community-Based Participatory Research: A Systematic Review of the Literature and Its Implications. See "What's New" on the CCPH homepage at www.ccpb.info. The report discussed during the webconference is available at <http://www.ahrq.gov/clinic/evrptpdfs.htm>

Stay up on the latest news about community-based participatory research on the CBPR listserv! Subscribe today at <https://mailman1.u.washington.edu/mailman/listinfo/cbpr>

Also, be sure to check out the new federal funding announcement on Community Participation in Research (PAR-05-026). Proposals will be accepted once a year - with deadlines on May 17, 2005, 2006 and 2007. <http://grants.nih.gov/grants/guide/pa-files/PAR-05-026.html>

For addition resources on CBPR, please visit <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/commbas.html>.

* New CCPH Featured Member: Cecil Doggette. Cecil is the Director of Outreach Services at Health Services for Children With Special Needs, Inc. In his interview, Cecil describes the uniqueness of this managed care organization that incorporates community resources to provide a holistic approach to the healthcare of the child/family unit. Read about the cutting edge work being done around male caregivers, and how they've managed to maintain strong, long-term community-campus partnerships. Cecil explains how he views challenges, "I don't really feel that there are challenges. Events that could be defined as challenges, I consider to be opportunities—opportunities for reconsideration and charting of new directions, new options to think about, procedures and operations to enhance."

For the full text of the interview click <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/featuredmember.html>. To read about previous featured members click <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/pastfeaturedmembers.html> .

* The Medical College of Wisconsin Board of Trustees has approved the 2004 slate of projects for the Healthier Wisconsin Partnership Program. To read about the program and the new funding awards, visit <http://www.mcw.edu/healthierwisconsin> or <http://www.mcw.edu/display/router.asp?docid=7668>

CCPH facilitated the level I merit review process of the proposals submitted for funding. All proposals were expected to embrace community health improvement, principles of community-academic partnerships and the principles of stewardship. To read more about the review process, visit <http://www.mcw.edu/display/router.asp?docid=5570>

* CCPH Program Director Jen Kauper-Brown will be presenting information about CCPH and our work to advance community-based participatory research at the Second Living Knowledge conference: Advancing Science and Society Interactions in Seville, Spain, February 3-5, 2005. The conference is organized by the International Science Shop Network "Living Knowledge" and supported by the European Commission under its Science and Society Programme. For more information about the conference, visit www.scienceshops.org.

* CCPH will be presenting a session entitled 'An Interactive Workshop on How to Build Partnerships for Community-based Participatory Research' and exhibiting at the 19th National Conference on Chronic Disease Prevention and Control: Health Disparities: Progress, Challenges, and Opportunities in Atlanta, Georgia from March 1-3, 2005. For more information about the conference, visit <http://www.cdc.gov/nccdphp/conference/>.

For more information about the project being presented, visit: <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/researchprojects.html#ExaminingCommunityPartnerships>

* CCPH Program Director Jen Kauper-Brown will be facilitating an interactive workshop entitled "Health Institutions as Economic and Community Anchors: Case Studies and Practical Strategies" at Community Health Solutions - Keeping the Drive Alive, the second joint conference of the Association for Community Health Improvement and Communities Joined in

Action in Tampa, Florida, March 3-5, 2005. For more information about this conference, visit: <http://www.communityhlth.org/communityhlth/conference/annual.html> or www.cjaonline.net

For more information about the project being presented, visit: <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/anchors.html>

For information about other upcoming events, visit <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/conferences.html>

MEMBERSHIP MATTERS

*Not yet a member? Join CCPH today! To learn more about the benefits of being a CCPH member, visit <http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/members.html>
Join online by credit card at <http://www.regonline.com/eventinfo.asp?EventId=8776> or by check at http://depts.washington.edu/ccph/pdf\_files/Jan2004.membrocpdf.pdf
If you have any questions, please contact us at (206) 543-8178 or ccphuw@u.washington.edu.

* Like what you're reading? Forward this e-mail to a friend and tell them to visit www.ccph.info to sign up for the monthly CCPH E-News published by Community-Campus Partnerships for Health.

*****
Community-Campus Partnerships for Health is a nonprofit organization that promotes health through partnerships between communities and higher educational institutions. Check out our website at www.ccph.info
*****