Which membership is right for me?

✓ Individual e-Membership
If you are interested or involved in any aspect of community-campus partnerships and want to improve the health of communities, this membership category will quickly connect you with essential contacts and resources. Created to enable our members to take advantage of those benefits most important to them, the Individual e-Membership includes subscription to the member-only listserv and e-newsletter, use of our online membership directory, and customized emails tailored to your interests.

✓ Individual Premium Membership
This membership category was created for individuals who want to take full advantage of all CCPH membership benefits and services. Benefits include all of those offered under the Individual e-Membership, plus discounts on registrations for CCPH events, discounts on publications, free subscription to CCPH's magazine, and discounts on CCPH Mentor Network services.

✓ Individual Student Membership
If you are currently enrolled in a college or university and involved in community-campus partnerships, the Individual Student Membership is a great deal for you. Students must submit a copy of their student identification to verify their status.

✓ Organizational Membership
If your organization has multiple individuals involved in community-campus partnerships, then the Organizational Membership is for you! Designed to offer maximum value, this membership allows four employees of your organization to take full advantage of the membership benefits and services offered under the Individual Premium Membership. In addition, organizational members receive one hour of free consultation on a topic of their choice. *More than four employees can be enrolled for an additional discounted fee.

What our members say about CCPH...

"I've been a CCPH member since 1999 and it is one of the few organizations where you actually get more than your money's worth."

—Wanda C. Gonsalves, Residency Program director, University of Kentucky Family Practice, Lexington, KY

"I get a ton of email from at least six professional organizations, and I have to say that CCPH's messages are always relevant, timely and stimulating."

—Harlen Henegar, Senior Business Manager, Louisiana State Health Sciences Center, Department of Ophthalmology, New Orleans, LA

"I have been a member of CCPH since its inception and believe it offers a much-needed alternative forum for highlighting the state of the art practices in service-learning and innovative partnerships between communities and universities."

—Lisa Hadden, President & CEO, Healthy Community Partners, Saginaw, MI

"It is wonderful to know that I have a network of people around the country with whom to share ideas and questions. Your work is much appreciated!"

—Caroline Lanza, Education Specialist, Community Health Advancement Project, University of Washington, Seattle, WA

Building Healthier Communities, Strengthening Higher Education

CCPH members are working to develop partnerships that balance power and share resources among partners.

Founded in 1996, the mission of Community-Campus Partnerships for Health (CCPH) is to foster partnerships between communities and higher educational institutions that build on each other's strengths and develop their roles as change agents for improving health professions education, civic responsibility and the overall health of communities.

We are a growing network of over 1000 communities and campuses that are collaborating to promote health through service-learning, community-based research, community service and other partnership strategies.

CCPH works across sectors of higher education, communities and disciplines to achieve successful community-campus partnerships. On a national and increasingly international scale, we promote awareness about the benefits of community-campus partnerships, advocate for policies that facilitate and support these partnerships, and promote service-learning as a core component of health professions education.

Membership is just one strategy for achieving our mission. We invite you to become a member of CCPH today!

MEMBERS

CCPH members are a diverse group of individuals and organizations committed to improving the health of communities through community-campus partnerships. CCPH members are affiliated with colleges and universities, community-based organizations, health care delivery systems, foundations and government, and represent the full scope of health professions disciplines. CCPH members are from 48 states, the District of Columbia, and more than 10 different countries.

CCPH members are working to build the capacity of communities and higher educational institutions to engage each other as partners.

WHY JOIN

In the words of one of our members, the most important reason you should join CCPH is "we are a group that makes things happen." CCPH provides members with valuable resources to help reach their goals. If you are trying to shape the future of community-campus partnerships... If you are engaged in forging new community efforts... If you are dedicated to your own professional development... If you are committed to increasing civic responsibility... If you want to be part of a group of individuals unrivaled in their passion for their work... If you are dedicated to improving health for all, then CCPH offers you a "home" to network with peers, take advantage of leadership development opportunities, and share perspectives with colleagues facing the same challenges.

CCPH offers introductory and advanced service-learning institutes annually.
