

Preceptor (supporting teaching/curriculum development) in Earth and Planetary Sciences
Harvard University

The Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences (EPS) seeks applications for a Preceptor. The successful applicant should be well-versed on the issues of earth sciences, have experience organizing and implementing sections and labs, and possess superior interpersonal skills. A graduate degree is required, along with evidence of successful prior teaching and administrative experience. The salary range for this position is $49,800 to $55,800 depending on qualifications and experience. The position is renewable on a yearly basis for up to eight years, contingent upon performance and curricular needs. For greater detail about the position and to apply, visit:

<https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/>. Applications should include:

1. A cover letter that discusses how this position would fit into the applicant's career trajectory;
2. A Curriculum Vitae;
3. A statement of teaching experiences and philosophy; and
4. Three letters of recommendation. At least one letter must discuss the applicant's experience with teaching, administration skills, and other educational work.

Review of applications will begin in April 21, 2014; preferences will be given to applications received by this date. For questions about the position or application procedure, contact Chenoweth Moffatt, Academic Administrator, moffatt@eps.harvard.edu; 617-384-9760.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.