State of the Science: New Guidelines for Opioid Prescribing and What They Mean for Elders with Chronic Pain

Manu Thakral, Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Kaiser Permanente Washington Health Research Institute

MANU THAKRAL

Manu Thakral is a postdoctoral research fellow at Kaiser Permanente Washington with an interest in chronic geriatric pain and policy initiatives to reduce risks associated with long-term opioid therapy. She has spent almost 10 years in clinical practice as an advanced registered nurse practitioner and currently works at Harborview Medical Center in the Medical Respite Program for mostly homeless patients who've recently been discharged from the hospital. Manu did her PhD training in nursing at University of Massachusetts Boston.
