At the University of Washington Botanic Gardens

For over thirty years, The Bloedel Reserve's executive director, Richard Brown, has photographed Bainbridge Island's celebrated manor, gardens and wilderness.

In addition to his duties at The Bloedel Reserve, Dick managed to find time to participate in the Naval Reserves, retiring in 1994 (after 29 years of service) at the rank of Commander. He is a past Board member of the American Association of Botanical Gardens & Arboreta, Past President of the Northwest Horticultural Society, past Founding Board Member of the Edward D. Dunn Historic Garden Trust, and Past President and Founding Board Member of the Bainbridge Island Land Trust; Past President and ten-year Board member of the Pacific Horticulture Foundation. Today, he serves on several Boards: Elisabeth C. Miller Botanical Garden (Vice President), Pendleton & Elisabeth Miller Charitable Trust, Bainbridge Island Parks Foundation (founding Board Member), and is serving as an advisor to the Highstead Arboretum in Connecticut.

Dick Brown is married, has two sons, three grandchildren and considers nature photography to be his primary hobby.

Special thanks to the: University of Washington Botanic Gardens, Elisabeth C. Miller Library, and the Bank of New York Mellon Wealth Management for their sponsorship of this photography exhibit.
