

A Corpus Study of Classic Chinese Poetry

Yuchau E. Hsiao and Kai-lin Sung
National Chengchi University

This paper discusses the metrical structure of classic Chinese poetry. It establishes a corpus of 1746 verse lines, and includes coding information such as stress, syllables, word categories and syntax. An OT analysis is offered based on the statistics.