LETTERS ANSWERED BY METAL TRADES

Replies to Questions With a Clear Statement Pointing Out Workers' Position

Contradicting the statement of Charles Piez that metal workers are bound to the Macy award by a contract pointing out that the alleged "contract" is null and void because it was not lawfully signed by international officers, when they had no authority to do so and when their action was in the expressed wishes of the local unions, the committee of the Metal Trades Council has prepared a series of replies addressed to the workers in the columns of the Union Record by Griffith. The communication sets out the questions asked by the strikers and in reply gives the following clear and convincing statement of the case for the strikers:

1. "Cannot the metal trades allow the workers to negotiate a better rate of wages in other words, Mr. Piez apparently takes the position in the present industrial dispute of saying: 'No matter how much profits the builders are making, they cannot pay the workers any part of their profits, but must keep it all themselves.'"

2. "Allow us to say that we have never refused to meet any board or committee, but we have the right of all American workers to finally decide their own matters and not be forced to accept decisions of any board."

A. E. MILLER CHARGES MISREPRESENTATION

Charges that the Seattle representatives of the federal department of labor, whose duty it is to furnish a true and unbiased report of the facts relating to the recent sympathetic strike, were made Friday morning by A. E. Miller, chairman of the conference committee of the Metal Trades Council.

Secretary Wilson is reported to have said that the department of labor was prepared to crush the recent strike because it was "instigated by the Bolsheviks and the Industrial Workers of the World for the sole purpose of forcing a nationwide industrial revolution in the United States."

Miller points out that the suggestion for the sympathetic strike was submitted by the metal trades strike committee to the Central Labor Council for the sole purpose of assisting the shipyard workers in their struggle, and that it is ridiculous to speak of it as a "revolution." That it was nothing of the kind, says Miller, is shown by the fact that although 60,000 workers were on strike for one week there was not a single arrest that had any connection with the strike.

LEGISLATURE WILL HAVE 600 BILLS TONIGHT

Shun All Measures to Ease Common Life of Men

By JOE SMITH
Olympia Staff Correspondent
OLYMPIA, Feb. 21.—This is the last day for the general introduction of bills in the legislature. By the time the day closes, there will be introduced nearly 600 bills.

A general survey of this mass of undigested legislation, a small portion of which has as yet been given more than passing consideration, indicates that there will be little reconstruction legislation for the state. While legislation is proposed for the relief of the people, there are some subjects deemed of importance which have been left almost entirely untouched.

Restoring the rights of freedom of speech, assembly and press to the laboring classes is a matter of the greatest importance. Restoring the rights of freedom of speech, assembly and press to the laboring classes is a matter of the greatest importance.

LABOR SUPPRESSORS GET DOWN TO BUSINESS AGAIN

Shivers Over Seattle Situation for Two Days and Then Takes Up Question of Investigating Alleged Spread of Bolshevism.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(By Mail.)—After shivering for nearly a week, because of the general sympathy in Seattle, our official labor suppressors in Washington have gone back to their office. There is the so-called investigation of Bolshevism in progress in the United States, in which the only people who have taken the propaganda, and who are begging the senators to testify, are barred. There is the question of the scale in industry, upon which Senator King of Oregon has made an assertion today that he is going to stand. And then there is the question of unemployment Congress doing nothing at all about a remedy.

Kenyon, who has been appointed to get control of the unemployment situation, told me that no action could be taken now and that he is hoping that the bill which will summon the congress in special session on an early date, and which is going to make the unemployment bill a permanent law.

There are men in labor offices in Washington who believe that it would be a fine thing from an educational standpoint if all the foreign-born labor agitators in the United States were deported to the countries from which they came, and that all called American labor agitators should return. The suggestion would at least be to employ a high percentage of foreign-born labor, and to the lack of a minimum wage scale—all these things are to be met as strictly American.

BOILERMAKERS' MEETING WAS LARGEST EVER HELD HERE

The only equitable factor that should enter into a dispute to participate in the products of toil from hand or brain is human service rendered.—Charles C. Schmand.

The main meeting of the largest local in the country—Boilermakers from Shipbuilders and Helpers' Local No. 144—held in the Armory Wednesday morning was the largest ever taken place in the Northwest. The attendance was variously estimated as from 12,000 to 13,000, but whatever difference of opinion there may have been as to the exact size of the meeting, there was no doubt whatever about the unanimity of the vote to remain on the job until a satisfactory settlement is reached. When the proposition was put to the members only one dissenting hand was raised.

The Commonweal Club will meet Monday, February 24, at 8:30 o'clock. The club is invited to meet at 8:30 o'clock. The club is invited to meet at 8:30 o'clock.

ARMY FAME IS LUCK, THINKS MAJ. OF 65TH

If Somebody Saw Hero's Brave Deeds He Was Decorated
TACOMA, Feb. 21.—Members of the Sixty-sixth regiment, Coast artillery corps, which arrived at Camp Lewis yesterday for demobilization, are entertaining their friends with many interesting stories of their experiences. Their regiment was cited half a dozen times for exceptional efficiency, and kept up with them most of the big 92 British howitzers that were part of the fortunes of war. The boys report that their leader, Col. Benjamin Kerfoot, got their names and the names of their friends rather than a first class discharge and a first class cross of guano.

It was mostly just luck if you got one," said Manny Thompson of Tacoma, who was a dispatch rider most of the time. "If some one happened to see you doing something exceptionally brave, and sent in your name, you might get a medal. Some whole regiments that did not get as many citations as we did, got decorations."

GOVERNOR OF NORTH DAKOTA ADDRESSES NEW LABOR PARTY
Chicago Union Men Give Big Welcome to Frazier
CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Governor Frazier's address before a monster rally of the new Labor party here has done much to bring about a closer understanding between the two parties. The governor's address in Chicago has been born of the bitter experience which laborers here has had in trying to get the old-time politicians to serve the interests of the people. The revolting workmen were anxious therefore, to hear the story of North Dakota, and Governor Frazier, although pressed with the work of putting through the farmers' program, took a flying trip to Chicago to address the party.

EMPLOYER ANNOYED BY WAGE DEMANDS
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 21.—In reporting the annual banquet of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, a local newspaper says: "In regard to the labor situation during the year, President Woodfill stated that the demands of labor for increased wages and shorter hours have caused considerable work and annoyance."

TEXAS BUILDERS LOCK OUT WORKERS
DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 21.—The Builders' Association has locked out 1,000 building tradesmen because these workers refuse to agree to a contract to raise wages during the year. The metal workers were demanding a 10 per cent increase in wages. When the unionists refused the employers induced the sheet metal contractors to break their promise to raise wages and the general lockout followed.

GOVERNOR OF NORTH DAKOTA ADDRESSES NEW LABOR PARTY

benefit of the few regardless of the effect it might have on the many. Moments will say that it is our own fault—and it is. We have benefited to elect men who have made the laws. When election time has come around we have gone to the polls and voted. The Republican for his name because he wanted a high protective tariff. The Democrat has voted for him for the opposite reason, and the moneyed interests who put up the campaign funds for both parties didn't care a whoop who was elected so long as he could control the legislature.

"I am mighty glad to know that organized labor of Illinois and Chicago have waked up to the fact that if they are going to get anything that will be of benefit, they must get into politics and elect men who will honestly represent them after they get into office."

Over 1,000 union men were present to hear him, and typical of their spirit also was the raising of more than $1,000 toward a campaign fund in less than 10 minutes. The workmen are also pledging their Liberty Bonds to raise working funds until the regular election can be collected. They are soliciting members by means of letters to those employed by the Nonpartisan league and each member receives a subscription to the official paper, the New Majority. They have a full set of candidates for the city elections this spring in the field.

Governor Frazier explained at length the farmers' and workers' movement of North Dakota, the great evil which the farmers had suffered at the hands of the old-guard politicians, and the importance of political union between the farmers and the workers. He said in part: "I feel highly honored in being privileged to take part in this important meeting of the new Labor party. I want to take this opportunity to congratulate the Chicago Federation of Labor upon the stand they have taken in the organization of a Labor party.

"Keep Out of Politics"
I suppose that all organizations of labor of whatever form, have always been advised to keep out of politics. I know that has been the case with the farmers' organizations. We refuse to believe that any attempt to mix in politics would cause our organization to immediately explode and scatter into thin air. A few years ago at a farmers' meeting in North Dakota, James J. Hill, who was then president of the Great Northern Railway Company, is reported to have kept out of politics, for politics are not for the farmer. I suppose you have heard the same advice.

"Politics have been rotten in North Dakota and every other state in this Union because the farmers and the workers have let the politicians run things for the benefit of special privileges. We have had altogether too much special privilege legislation in the United States. Congress has passed too much privilege legislation for the benefit of the moneyed interests, for the

D. Hightower, a discharged soldier, applied to the soldiers and sailors branch of the federal employment office in search of work and was directed by them to the firm of Kilbourne & Clark Manufacturing Company.

Hightower was hired as a mill pressman and given an employment also signed by the timekeeper as shown by the picture. Under the rate of pay was to be $1.50 per day. The Macy board at that time of this kind of work is a minimum of not less than $5 per day of eight hours. The Kilbourne & Clark workman is engaged in government work, building wireless apparatus for the military district corporation.

Other soldiers applying for work at this place report to union headquarters that they are offered wages held by girls at $1 per day less than the girls are receiving. These girls at present are making from $4 to $5.50 per day. The Macy board at that time of this kind of work is a minimum of $4.44 per day.

CHRIST HARRY GETS WOUNDED

Private Christ Harry, a member of Boilermakers, Shipbuilders and Helpers' Local No. 184, is in a hospital in France and is getting along well. He enlisted in 1917, being a member of Company A, Twenty-eighth infantry, First division, U. S. Army. He has been at the front for more than a year and has been wounded twice. He was reported missing in action, but after six months his brother, Peter Harry, 225 First avenue, received a letter from him from a hospital in France. Private Harry was born in Alabama.

GREAT UNREST IS INCREASING

HASLE, Feb. 21.—The general strike and attendant disorders in Germany are increasing. It was indicated in dispatches received here today.

After Spartacus had cut the railway from Eberfeld to Spa, government troops arrived at Eberfeld and defeated the revolutionaries, killing 17 and wounding 28. Spartacus occupied Bayreuth and forced the burgomaster to resign. Government forces are being concentrated south of Lippe and east of Bochum.

LOCAL 16,304 IS GAINING

Seattle Office Employees, Local 16,304, regardless of the present strike, are acquiring many new members.

John F. Kenney, business agent, reports that inasmuch as the office employees heretofore have always been fed up with the propaganda of the bosses handed them, they still remain thin and poor, and have decided to have a change of diet, the kind of food put up by them.

By reversing the tables and feeding the boss on a little of their propaganda, maybe they will gain a little flesh and not be poor all their lives.

STRIKERS CALL MANY MEETINGS

Following is the list of meetings for strikers and their families, and is to be observed to the exclusion of all other notices:

Tonight, Friday, a meeting has been arranged at Ajax hall, Greenwood avenue and 45th street. The strike committee of the metal trades will provide a chairman and speakers.

SHEET METAL MEN RECORD BOOSTERS

The Sheet Metal Workers and Coppermiths' Helpers at their meeting on Wednesday night withdrew their deposits of individual savings and banks fund. The fact that these particular banks happened to be the Chamber of Commerce "whispering ring" and withdrew their advertising from the "Union Record" may or may not have had something to do with the "rum."

UNION RECORD'S FRIENDS IN FIGHT FOR JUSTICE

The Honor Roll is growing as rapidly we may be compelled to hire a bookkeeper to keep the list up to date. Friends are watching the fight from other towns and cities, and from Bremerton comes word that Electrical Workers' Local No. 514 went on to honor Roll of the "Only paper in the northwest published for the benefit of the workman."

FREE TREATMENTS FOR STRIKERS

The following letter was read before the strike committee at its regular meeting Thursday afternoon:

"184-6 Empire building — Any striking member or any one of the family that is dependent on him, who may be sick, and interested in chiropractic treatment, may have adjustments free for one week at this office." Signed, Robert E. Pritt.

While Big Business Is Boycotting Your Paper

it need not suffer if you will do your part. Many newspapers have made themselves entirely independent of the big advertisers by the development of their classified advertising columns. The Union Record has not the time nor the money to carry on the intensive campaign necessary to bring big results along that line and must depend upon those of its readers who are interested enough in its welfare to do the work for it.

You probably have in your house right now several articles which are of no use whatever to you, but which, if called to the attention of someone else through our classified columns, would find a ready sale. This would serve a double purpose, for in addition to giving you ready money for goods which you cannot use, it will take that much business away from firms which are boycotting your paper.

Two pages of classified advertisements will make this paper absolutely independent of anyone at its present subscription price. We are the people who use the classified columns. Let's get together on this and show the boycotters what we can do for ourselves.

Don't stop with merely placing YOUR adv. in the paper. Read the other fellow's and answer it when he is selling something you need.

PUTTING PEP INTO POLITICS

The successful labor candidates in the primaries are not going to let the grass grow under their feet, from present indications. Their splendid work has encouraged them to begin work on a campaign that will wake up the natives from one end of the city to the other. Each of the men nominated has a following of personal friends in addition to the following in the labor movement and all these friends are using every opportunity to advance the interests of the candidates.

For labor's part, this is the first time in the history of Seattle that so great an opportunity was presented for making a clean sweep of the legislative body of the city. The election of Proctor, Levi and Gallant will add to the city council three men qualified technically and intellectually to function for the best interests of both the city and the workers of the city—which in the last analysis means the same thing—and with the strength of the labor movement what it is, there can be no good excuse for failure.

It is on your part, however, that we must assure our candidates two-thirds of the votes which do not go to the polls on primary day. This is at 8 o'clock, at the Walters' Hall, 87 First street, a meeting of boosters for the labor candidates will be held. While the notice given is short, it is to be hoped that every active working man and woman will be present. It is their business to be on hand and help in the work of laying plans for the balance of the campaign. Everyone who desires to help will be welcome.

OUTSIDE, LOOKING IN

It would be hard for some visitor from the planet Mars or other place where the methods are not known, to grasp our methods of town building. We spend money for commercial shills and literature. We blacklist the man who says anything against the old town. And then as soon as we are getting something in the wrong direction of the town, up the road values so that the "something" is either driven away or finds it difficult to exist and stay the rent.

The Bellingham (Wash.) Journal touches off the recent Seattle experiment along this line as follows: "Just as soon as the city began to flourish industrially, the landlords began to find rents with the result that the cost of living has steadily enhanced until it is worse in Seattle after the war than it was during it. High real estate values probably will be the result of individual development. Industries can't make good in communities where the workers are overtaxed for the benefit of landlords. Seattle probably will have to take other 'stumpy' before the property owners will learn sense. It is a question if the shipbuilding industry can stand a raise in wages at this time, and if the men can not afford to work at current rates the result probably will be that the shipyards will close down and the business be transferred to places where the cost of living is less."

If we were really serious about building up a city, we should devote ourselves to reducing living costs and to putting a crimp into the soaring aspirations of the real estate sharks.

MEAT-AXE STATESMEN

BE-Präsident Taft is aspiring for leadership of that group of so-called statesmen who would remove the danger of bolshevism by wielding the meat axe. Without passing on the question of whether the vicious results of the work of these fat-headed interlopers of the past has made revolution necessary in Europe, we are absolutely certain that the way to avoid revolution is to give the people relief from oppression and not to chop off their hungry heads.

NO VIOLENCE

The story of the Leavenworth strike, in the last two columns, is one of the most striking events of the year. Together with the other recent strikes, it adopted, even in a jail, the slogan of non-violence. The motto heard everywhere today among the rank and file of the workers.

The word is sick of violence. The rulers in a community still talk it, but the peoples are refusing to use it. They are grasping for, and finding, a better way.

WOMEN WAR-WORKERS

"We have moved 368,000 women into some variety of war-occupation during the past ten months," said Miss G. of the publicity section of the Women's Employment Service under the Department of Labor. I was astonished. I had not realized how many women had been taken by industry and how important a part had been taken by the Government's Employment Service. "Where have you been doing all this work?" I asked. "I haven't seen it out our way."

Mostly New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York," she said, "around the places where munitions and war-supplies were made. They went into making parts of aircraft and gas masks. They went into machine shops for fire work, turning shells and filling them. Some of them became machinists and even machinist foremen."

The Pennsylvania Railroad had taken 6,000 women from us, and the Packard automobile plant is using 1,500. One munitions factory took as many as 12,000. The Philadelphia office kept twelve scouts out to bid for workers. At the end of the Mississippi there were too few women changing jobs to need much attention from the government.

Working Women Before "Where did they come from?" I asked. "The majority came out of their own occupations," she answered. "The country has been stripped of domestics. The hotel maids have decreased greatly. Many workers came from the textile industries. War-work paid better than before."

"Do you mean," I asked, surprised, that there were not large numbers of women working for the first time in their lives?" "Mostly no," she answered, "because they were going to begin to do something useful for their country, were conspicuous by their absence when it came to war work. One plant told us that half the women who came to them without industrial experience dropped out before they were of any use. The real work was done by the regular working women of the country."

"We have our figures to prove it," she added. "Even in the war-work centers, only about 5 to 10 per cent stated that they had never worked before. No, the war-work of women is a shifting of the workers from one job to another."

Problem of Distribution "That would mean," I said, "that the main problem of readjustment after the war, as far as women are concerned, is going to be to distribute them again, rather than making new jobs."

"Yes," she said, "and we are already at work on that. The day after the armistice was signed, we were suddenly turned out in New York. About 4,000 of them didn't want any help from us, and the rest were absorbed at once. But of course that was at the very beginning of peace when workers were still in a state of confusion."

The Tick-Tock Machine She went on to tell about the placing of the women. Women were very helpful in much of the war industry, she explained. They were more rapid and regular in their motions, they were fitted nicely into the latest efficiency schemes!

"One of these she told me about. In front of each girl was a little tick-tock machine, of the kind that girls use in learning to play a piece in order to keep regular rhythm. Tick-tock, it went throughout the hours of work. And with every tick there was supposed to be a certain motion made."

Five studies in all, that how the motion-study experts divided the process, five motions, each taking the same time. The tick-tock machine told you when to make a motion, and in what order, and you had to act quite mechanically in a perfect rhythm.

I suppose she must have noticed my look of horror, for she assured me that machines really make easier for the girl to do it that way. Much less fatiguing, really, she said, although of course it did sound a little like turning human beings into machines.

"The Same Patriotic Appeal" I remembered that when I read in a paper the following news editorial: "The same patriotic appeals which were responsible for the entrance of so many women into industry during the war should be continued to induce women to vacate positions accepted during the emergency. In our paper, I read of patriotic appeals to make the women contented now with other jobs that pay less.

Reasonably raw, isn't it? That is what patriots desire, is it? I used inner force which moves these working units around, and makes them willing to sacrifice and submit.

I gladly absolve the Government's Employment Service from any intentions towards the girls but the most friendly ones. It came into being in an hour of crisis, and it helped meet that crisis. Now, in this new crisis, it desires to help replace girls without pay. Success to its efforts!

WHAT CAN YOU DO WITH THEM?

By Anise

They came into the office To love our country's FLAG, And to say we require And to say we require To have for its emblem The ancient swastika Of the OFFICE BOSS? Why do you waste your money ON SPIES and stool-pigeons TO CATCH US? And take much time to prove That we are Bolsheviki In order to DEPORT US? See, we profess it. We will bring you THOUSANDS OF WORKERS. And we WANT very much TO BE DEPORTED! Or even ALLOWED to go TO OUR OWN COUNTRY. They are always arresting us And asking if we love us The flag of our own country, And when we say 'YES,' They call us anarchists. Does it make us anarchists

Couldn't answer. And you can't blame them. With CAN YOU DO WITH THEM? With Bolsheviki? And where is your earth Can you give us a SAFE place to put them? There isn't room enough IN JAILS. Besides, I see they've had A STRIKE in Leavenworth. If you send them to Russia They will begin Repelling EN INVADERS! To any other place? They start this "propaganda" The only way out Is to drop them. IN THE BAY. And even then, I suppose They'd manage to start Some TITIAL WAY or other TO DESTROY our land!

A DINNER IN HER ROOM

CHAPTER LXXIV

Mr. Mayson's words had been simple enough, but she had conceived a great deal. Simple and unadorned, but she could detect the hidden meaning. Again she thought of the words of the note so boldly given her, and again she thought of the words of Clifford. Clifford angry at me, and perhaps complicate a matter already intricate.

About three o'clock I went for a walk in the park. It was a cold, bracing afternoon, and I was thinking of the note and a little shopping and about five o'clock returned to the hotel. I was thinking of the note and a little shopping and about five o'clock returned to the hotel. I was thinking of the note and a little shopping and about five o'clock returned to the hotel.

The Theater Party We found Mr. Mayson waiting in the lobby, very handsome in evening clothes, almost not nearly so distinguished looking as we were. He gave me a wonderful corsage bouquet of orchids, which was very much appreciated, and as Clifford was watching me closely I saw he was flattered by the attention, and so tried to appear calm.

The play was a simple comedy story of country life. I enjoyed it immensely. In one scene, I found myself wiping my eyes over some touching incident.

After the play, we went to a dinner in her room. I was thinking of the note and a little shopping and about five o'clock returned to the hotel. I was thinking of the note and a little shopping and about five o'clock returned to the hotel.

COUSIN BRUIN VISITS JIMMY COON

Cousin Bruin was spending the week end with his cousin. You know that Giant Bear is the great Cousin of Jimmy Coon. Many people who have great guests, find it hard to think of the right thing to say for meals. And Cousin Bruin has such a big appetite!

Jimmy Coon loved to watch and see what everyone is doing, you know, and he loves to watch little things that the dog and cat do. They are hunting or fishing Jimmy Coon was very busy. He had the Big Henlock. So now that Giant Bear was visiting him, Jimmy Coon had to be a little more careful with me and you can have your own little Henlock. Jimmy Coon had a big appetite. Jimmy Coon and Cousin Bruin, wandered into the edge of Murrumbidgee Brook. And Jimmy Coon looked and looked to see if he could find something to eat. Cousin Bruin's berries from a bush and crammed into his mouth. Jimmy Coon was hungry and grumbled and rumbled. Jimmy Coon hung his head and looked down at the ground.

Jimmy Coon sits in for looks out of a hole in the Big Henlock. The white Cousin Bruin was becoming crosser and crosser. He was angry for fear of a Green Forest he heard little William being pulled in. Now Jimmy Coon's little white Henlock was in a hole in the ground. Cousin Bruin, we have almost broken our breakfast room and there you will find a very cool breakfast. Jimmy Coon was very busy. He had the Big Henlock. The Strike at Leavenworth Prisoners organizing and striking. Prisoners refusing to work until their grievances were redressed. And conscientious objectors turning the strike from a strike without violence into a strike with violence. The strike at Leavenworth, Kansas, has become a national issue. The prisoners are demanding better conditions, and the government is refusing to meet their demands.

New Type of Prisoner The prison was filled to overflowing. The prisoners were of various types. Some were political prisoners, some were conscientious objectors, and some were ordinary criminals. The strike was led by the conscientious objectors, who were demanding better conditions and the right to work without violence.

After the Armistice The armistice was signed, and the prisoners were released. Some were sent to their homes, and some were sent to other parts of the country. The strike had been a success, and the prisoners had won their demands.

Peace-time Length On January 11, 1919, the number of prisoners in Leavenworth was 3,400. Men are doubled up in 5 1/2 cells. The strike was a success, and the prisoners had won their demands.

Race Riots started toward the end of January. The rioters were very hostile to the prisoners, and they were demanding better conditions. The strike was a success, and the prisoners had won their demands.

The Strike Begins At 10:00 p.m. on Thursday the men were lined up to be marched out to the workhouse. The strike was a success, and the prisoners had won their demands.

Tomorrow—The After Theater Supper The men were lined up to be marched out to the workhouse. The strike was a success, and the prisoners had won their demands.

Contributed POETRY The men were lined up to be marched out to the workhouse. The strike was a success, and the prisoners had won their demands.
