Regarding the present metal trades strike in this city, where does the interest of the average business man in Seattle lies. In the hands of the shipyard owners or in the fate of the worker in this strike? If the strike is won, it will mean a distribution of $200,000 to $300,000 a week among the business men of Seattle. If we lose, can or will the shipyard owners distribute that much money among the small business men of Seattle? Think it over and see if your interest is with or against the worker in this struggle. Monday and Tuesday have been selected as tag-day by the shipyard workers. Let every man and woman who feels that their interest is with the worker in this struggle help win the day for every woman and child in this city. Tags will be sold on the streets of Seattle Monday and Tuesday for 25c a tag by the workers and their wives and daughters. Any lady wishing to help, please report to Room 402 Collins Building.

One of Uncle Sam's soldiers, well known in Sastik, writes us from England under date of Dec. 28. "One obtains a good idea of labor conditions on the continent and it seems to one that the United States in rather remote from the center of the world's activities. And can appreciate work fully the stard 'point of the inter-nationalist so much before when he is in contact with British and Continental politics and social conditions. "The genus to me that England and the same transformer of the inter-nationality of the stard point of the inter-nationality is and the same to be that America is following its own trademion movement without regard to and without paying any attention to European movements." "And as a result of the new angle from which I have seen conditions at home and in Europe, I see very clearly the Junkerin as a good the The The States and in England may think that democracy has been as well and established firmly and although I may be too peasimistic, about the only thing I can see resulting from the war is the these of capitalism and the attempt of conservations to cut the democratic movement in all constructions at home and in Europe. I as even a for the move and established firmly and although I may be too peasimistic. The maxes affect the conservation are socially superior to the great nations. "One day I stepped into St. Stephen's chart the transformation and an end of the Mark that the theory of the terms of conservation are socially superior to the great nations."
