

Retrospect

The first general strike in the history of the American labor movement has come to an end.

Perhaps it would not be amiss to stop just a moment and take a look at what happened—a post mortem, as it were. It sometimes happens that much can be learned from a careful analysis of events that have transpired and, perhaps, learn how to avoid mistakes of omission and commission.

Four things stand out above all others like a mountain in the plain. These are:

First—The splendid solidarity evidenced by the 100 per cent response to the strike call.

Second—The absolute orderliness of the workers on strike and the resolute refusal to be aggravated into any action that could in any measure be interpreted as riotous conduct.

Third—The hysterical bombast and sometimes guttersnipe common events that emanated from the mayor's office down at the County building, and then retailed through the Seventh avenue end of labor" that has at last been unmasked.

Fourth—The desperate efforts at "playing to the gallery" that indulged in by the Star in an effort to curry favor with big business after the management had finally come to understand that its character was known to the workers of the community.

Looking up these several points we cannot refrain from comment on them. As to the solidarity that was so much in evidence, it more than met the expectations of the most sanguine and exacting of the enthusiasts for the strike. It was a magnificent and inspiring demonstration. It might have been even more impressive but for a slight anti-climax that arose from confusion at the last. This confusion was the inevitable result of a weapon that was strange to most of those who were involved. In the experience of the past week a like anti-climax would not be peculiar to occur.

The orderliness of the men and women is just what was expected by those who know the labor movement. Whatever of disorder and wild stories of riot that was sent broadcast throughout the land by those who just temporarily disgrace the city by their occupancy of high place in the community are in every case without the slightest foundation in fact. The best to all of this riot about the need of military protection and the protection of extra police is the record of the arrests for the period that covered the strike. The record shows that fewer men and women were arrested during the strike than had been the case for a like period in years—if ever. One of the arrests were traceable to the strike.

When we come to a discussion of Mayor Ole Hanson and his idiotic, slanderous and silly mouthings. Perhaps the less said about such a noisome man as the mayor the better. Adequate description and discussion is impossible for two very good reasons—first, the postal laws prohibit, and second, the readers of the Union Record are perfectly sane and clean-minded and clean-tongued men and women and it would be a disgrace to indulge in the language that would fitly criticize the mayor's recent efforts to incite to riot and act the ignominious strikebreaker. Many of the readers of the Union Record have insisted upon to be taken to recall the mayor. To these earnest men and women we say: FORGET IT!

There is much constructive work that needs to be done in this city. The time and energies of the labor movement can best be used to that work. Let Ole rattle around down at the City-County building like a mad scientist for if he doesn't rattle around there he will rattle around here else, for rattle he must. Besides, it is fitting that the citizens should endeavor to endure, with what patience they can command, that rattling indulged in the political spew that resulted in Ole's election to the office. We are firm believers in standing up to the rack and taking what is due to us for our mistakes. Having taken our medicine, perhaps we won't be any appreciable again—no matter if they do happen to bear the label "Ole." All of the opportunity he has had for mischief he has not shown himself as yet, so of doing anything worse than run off at the mouth and indulge in that is neither polite or good rhetoric.

It might very well happen that a policy of "watchful waiting" will result in a very mayor drowning himself in his flood of words. So why worry about the average man as his own ravings. Let him rave! Nothing can be said or done that would so conclusively damn him as the average man as his own ravings. Let him rave! When we come to that other almost unmentionable subject, the Seattle "Americanism" campaign, it is fitting that the citizens should endeavor to endure, with what patience they can command, that rattling indulged in the political spew that resulted in Ole's election to the office. STRIKERS TO BE CONTINUED

SHIPWORKERS HAVE NOT YET COMPROMISED

Will Remain Until They Can Obtain a Living Wage

GENERAL MORRISON IS KEPT IN DARK

Committee Interviews Officer With Satisfactory Results

The shipyard strike is still on and it will remain on until the workers with a living wage. The committee consists of A. E. Miller, J. Duschak, John Van Caren, J. E. Moran, J. E. Moran and Dave Bonnell.

The general's deck was pulled high with direct actionist literature during the strike, the general said, but not a single copy of the committee that had been distributed in Seattle during the strike. The committee declared that all attempts at disincorporation were pure "bunk" and that the only remedy for the situation was from Mayor Ole Hanson.

TANNATT SHOWS POWER OF UNSEEN GOVERNMENT

By E. TAPPAN TANNATT
Permit me to now call your attention to two or three points of interest in this issue...

Under the amendments we find "Congress shall make no law respecting the freedom of speech or of the press..."

"Excessive bail shall not be required, nor cruel and unusual punishment inflicted..."

"New director of United States Steel Corporation, International Granite Marble and Stone Company..."

"We have, through our own negligence, permitted the German government to construct leagues, corporations and trusts..."

"I shall continue to show you the conditions and the situation of a constitutional way out of them..."

"WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—These are dark days for the packers..."

"The Spartacus group" was the name given to the group of men who were the first to bring out their stances in the blood-tinted papers..."

"TOWNS OCCUPIED
BERLIN, Feb. 10.—(Delayed.)—Governments of Prussia and Occupied Bremen and Occupied..."

"CARRY OFFICE

Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Company

HUB of the Pacific Northwest, gateway to Alaska, Siberia and the Orient, Seattle's import and export business amounted to four hundred and eighty-five millions in 1916. It amounted to six hundred and eighty-five millions in 1917. Her bank clearings amount to over a billion dollars a year; her bank deposits to over a hundred and fifty millions. In 1890 Seattle had a population of eight thousand; in 1918, three hundred and twenty-eight thousand. In 1917 the Puget Sound and Alaska salmon pack sold was valued at sixty-seven million dollars. In 1917 Seattle had 1,200 industries, whose product sold for two hundred million dollars. Besides Puget Sound, Seattle has the largest fresh water harbor in the world. The Seattle shipyard payrolls have been averaging more than two million five hundred thousand dollars each month for the last eight months. Seattle has seven transcontinental lines, sixty-five steamship lines, thirty-five miles of city boulevards, twenty-eight parks, and hundreds of miles of automobile roads.

Its geographical relations with the rest of the world, its unparalleled opportunities for commerce, the marvelous beauty of its surroundings as a home city, help to prove Seattle's future as a metropolis. The possibilities of manufactures in the vicinity of Seattle are practically boundless. For the manufacture of commodities from Oriental raw materials, the possibilities are limitless. Few who are familiar with the industrial possibilities of Seattle doubt that there will be located here in a few years the largest tire factories in the world, for through no other port in the United States are such large quantities of rubber imported. Through no other port in the world are such large quantities of bean and cocoa oil imported.
