

West Virginia University (WVU) is seeking full-time academic M.D., M.D./Ph.D. and Ph.D. Clinical Pathologists at the Assistant or Associate Professor ranks. We are most interested in candidates qualified to serve as Medical Directors of the microbiology, molecular diagnostics, and clinical chemistry laboratories at WVU Hospital.

Applicants should have strong academic credentials and are expected to contribute to the department's educational mission, which includes teaching laboratory science to residents, fellows, medical students, and medical technologists. Ideal candidates will have a broad base of knowledge in Clinical Pathology, as well as good administrative and interpersonal skills. Experience in reference laboratory testing and laboratory informatics is also of interest. Candidates must possess a M.D., M.D./Ph.D, or Ph.D. degree and be board certified/eligible by the American Board of Pathology or a diplomate of an accredited clinical laboratory subspecialty board (e.g. American Board of Medical Microbiology, American Board of Clinical Chemistry, etc.). M.D. candidates must be qualified to obtain a WV medical license. Opportunities for translational research activities are available throughout the WVU academic community.

Morgantown is a growing university community located 80 miles south of Pittsburgh, and 200 miles from Baltimore or Washington, DC. Numerous outdoor, sporting, and other recreational activities are available.

Competitive academic salaries are offered commensurate with experience/academic rank and benefits are offered through the University and Medical Practice Plan. Interested candidates should send their CV and brief statement of Clinical Pathology interests to:
