

FAMED 525

African American Health & Healthcare Disparities

Autumn Quarter 2018
Thursdays, 5:30 to 6:50pm
October 4th - December 6th
SLN: 14907 A
1 credit
Michelle Terry, MD, Course Chair

Students completing this course will learn about the most pressing health issues facing African Americans. The course will provide a forum for students to consider root causes of health disparity in African descendants and provide an opportunity to explore strategies to remedy problems in public health and healthcare delivery systems.

For more information, contact Course Manager:

Norma Alicia Pino at pinon@uw.edu