

INVITATION TO SUBMIT

THE 2009 NORTHWEST OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH CONFERENCE REGIONAL INTERDISCIPLINARY - STUDENT RESEARCH FORUM

The Northwest Occupational Health Conference (NOHC) is held yearly in the fall by the Industrial Hygiene (IH), Occupational Medicine (OM), and Occupational Health Nursing (OHN) communities. NOHC is among the largest and most successful regional multidisciplinary conferences, attracting 250-300 attendees from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Alaska, Montana, and British Columbia.

Northwest Center for Occupational Health & Safety (NWCOHS) in collaboration with the NOHC will host a “Student Research/Scholarly Project Forum”, open to graduate students of the regional institutions and within the professional categories of IH, OM, OHN, OS and other related disciplines such as epidemiology, engineering, and occupational health psychology.

A scholarship* will be awarded to a student in each of the disciplines

A Grand Prize of $500 will be awarded for the overall best paper

A prize of $250 will be awarded in each of the following disciplines: IH, OM, OHN, as well as one in an allied program such as Ergo, OH Psychology or Safety

To be eligible for the Student Research/Scholarly Project Forum, you must be:

- a current student, or
- submit a paper based on work done as a student within two years of completion.

To apply—your submission must include:

1. A minimum of two authors: you as the author & your research mentor
2. The title of the research paper
3. A 250 word abstract

All submissions will be judged by a panel of OH&S professionals.

Submit your abstract via email to:
