

Nominations for Occupational Health & Safety Section Awards Due by May 1.

The OHS section offers awards in 3 categories:

Alice Hamilton (1869 -1970). Alice Hamilton, considered the founder of occupational health in the United States, was a tireless activist and physician who dedicated her life to improving the health and safety of workers. She was committed to science, service, and compassion. This award recognizes the life-long contributions of individuals who have distinguished themselves through a career of hard work and dedication to improve the lives of workers

Lorin Kerr (1909 -1991). Lorin Kerr was a life-long activist and served for over 40 years as a physician for the United Mine Workers. He was dedicated to improving access to health care for coal miners and other workers and to obtaining compensation for and preventing black lung disease. This award recognizes a younger activist for their sustained and outstanding efforts and dedication to improve the lives of workers.

International. This award recognizes individuals with outstanding achievement in the field of occupational health and safety outside the United States.

Please fill out the following information on the person you are nominating:

Name:

Organization Affiliation:

Contact information for nominee:

Identify which of the above awards you are nominating the person for:

Write one paragraph describing why you feel this person should receive an award.

Do you think this person will be able to be at the Awards Lunch to receive the award?

Nominator's contact information:

Please send to Peter Dooley at Laborsafe@aol.com by 5/1/06