

Medical Technology/Medical Laboratory Science Program Information Session

UW School of Medicine

Bachelor of Science

Ask yourself the following questions: Do you like biology and chemistry classes? Do you enjoy solving puzzles? Do you enjoy an intellectual challenge? Have you considered a career in the health professions and/or sciences?

If you answered yes, then Medical Technology may be the major and career choice for you! Also known as Medical Laboratory Science, this is the third largest health profession and is extremely critical to the discovery, diagnosis and treatment of disease. To learn more about this bachelor of science degree program at the University of Washington please join us on Friday, November 16, 2012 at 2:30 pm in D209/Turner Auditorium in the UW Magnuson Health Sciences Building (near the Medical Center) for our annual information session.
