

ZANELE MUHOLI

Stice Feminist
Scholar of Social Justice

Sponsored by the UW
Department of Gender,
Women and Sexuality
Studies

Zanele Muholi is a visual activist born in Umlazi, Durban who earned a MFA from Ryerson University in Toronto and has published three books of her photographic work. In concert with her journeys into black female sexualities and genders in Africa, she works with members of her community, addressing pressing issues facing black lesbians living in South Africa today, including sexual violence, HIV, and brutal murders. In 2009, she founded Inkanyiso Productions, an organization that deals with Visual Arts/Activism, Media & Advocacy.

A CONVERSATION WITH ZANELE MUHOLI

7:00 pm
Tuesday, January 29, 2013
Kane Hall 225

Join us for a public interview with Zanele Muholi about her art and activism conducted by Amanda Swarr, Associate Professor in the Department of Gender, Women and Sexuality Studies. Her career as a photographer, filmmaker, and human rights activist will be addressed in this rare opportunity for the UW community.

DIFFICULT LOVE: FILM SCREENING AND DISCUSSION WITH THE FILMMAKER

6:00 pm
Wednesday, January 30, 2013
Allen Auditorium in Allen Library
Difficult Love (2010), commissioned by the South African Broadcasting Corporation, has won awards at film festivals in Amsterdam, London, Chicago, Spain, Sweden and Italy. This groundbreaking and personal documentary explores the nuances of South African lesbians' lives.