Homework 3-17-92

Sahaptin

Mary James

1. A sentence:

(a) Nch'i chmuk k'usi k'ui iwahwaksha.

(b) The big black dog is barking.

2. No, all the words in English and Sahaptin are not alike.

(a) English adds the word, the, an article in front of the series of adjectives that modify the noun. Otherwise the series of adjectives are the same in this sentence.

(b) A second difference is the use of the pronoun marker in Sahaptin and English. In Sahaptin "i" marks who is doing the action and is attached to the front of the verb.

(c) The indication of verb tense has some similarities and differences. Each use a root verb and add endings to mark tense. English, however, requires "auxiliary" (helping) verbs (^{sometimes} also modal) to signal many of the tenses.

3. Where do the words occur in relation to each other by function?

In this sentence the order is very similar. The adjectives come before the ^(subject) noun and the verb follows. (See #2 for comments on "i" and "the.")

4. In what patterns do words occur?

(a) The adjectives are clustered with a noun in both sentences.

(b) Each sentence has a verb phrase:

(1) In English it is "is barking."

(2) In Salishan it is "Siwahwaksha."

Procedure:

Note: I have put the words in order based on English syntax. I do not truly know if this order is correct for Sahaptin, but that is how I translated for this assignment.
