CALL FOR PAPERS

Deadline for Receipt of Abstracts: January 15, 2003, 9 p.m. (Seattle time)

Home page --- <http://depts.washington.edu/salt13/>

Email --- salt13@u.washington.edu

SALT 13 invites submissions for 30-minute presentations (plus 10-minute discussions) on any topic pertaining to natural language semantics, with relevance to linguistic theory. Any person can submit one abstract as sole author and one abstract as co-author. Abstracts must be at most 2 pages (8.5x11 inches) in length, including references, with 1-inch (2.5 cm) margins on all four sides, using a 12-pt font. In the interest of fairness, these limits will be strictly enforced.

Submit by email (strongly encouraged): send to salt13@u.washington.edu

Please send an email message with the following information in the main text: title of paper, author's name(s), affiliation(s), and contact information (address, email, phone number). Attach an anonymous file of the abstract. We prefer pdf (.pdf) files but will accept MS-Word (.doc) or plain text (.txt) files. Use appropriate suffixes for the name of your attached file.

Submit by physical mail (if necessary): send to SALT 13 Committee, University of Washington, Department of Linguistics, Padelford A-210, Box 354340, Seattle WA, 98195-4340, U.S.A.

Please submit 7 anonymous copies of your abstract and a separate card including the title of the paper, author's name(s), affiliation(s) and contact information.

We will not be able to consider abstracts received after the deadline. Notification of acceptance will take place during the first week of March, 2003.

SALT 13 will be held under the auspices of the Graduate School, Center for the Humanities, College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Linguistics, Department of Germanics, Department of Philosophy, and Department of Computer Science at the University of Washington.
