The SoTL Showcase provides an opportunity for people engaged in reflecting on or attempting to measure the effects of their teaching on student learning. To submit a proposal for your work to be part of the Showcase, please provide a brief description of your work which addresses:

- What you were trying to find out or better understand
- Relevant characteristics of your setting – course, type of students, etc.
- What you did to examine the effects of your teaching
- What you learned, expected or unexpected, by approaching your teaching in this way

Session Format

The SoTL Showcase is designed for interactive presentations and discussion among participants. You are invited to present your work as a poster, and you are welcome to bring handouts or provide other media or equipment that will help demonstrate your work.

Proposals can be dropped off at CIDR, 100 Gerberding Hall, or submitted by campus mail to: Teaching & Learning Symposium, c/o CIDR, Box 351265. Proposals can also be submitted as email attachments to sotl@u.washington.edu
