UPCOMING ATTRACTIONS
AT THE
SCHOOL OF DRAMA

THE QUEENS
By Normand Chaurette
Translated by Linda Gaboriau
The Penthouse Theatre
February 7 - 11

STEVEDORE
The Playhouse Theatre
By Paul Peters and George Sklar
February 14 - 25

LANDSCAPE OF THE BODY
By John Guare
The Penthouse Theatre
February 28 - March 10

RECOMMENDED READING
Magarshack, David. Chekhov, the dramatist.
New York, Hill and Wang, 1960

Magarshack, David. Chekhov, a life.
London, Faber and Faber, 1952

Valency, Maurice. Jacques The Breaking String:
the plays of Anton Chekhov
New York, Oxford University Press, 1966

School of Drama

Executive Director
Sarah Nash Gates

Faculty
Professors Robert Dohltrom, Barry Witham,
Associate Professors Robyn Hunt, Steve Pearson,
William Forrester
Assistant Professors Sarah Bryant-Bertail, M.L. Geiger,
Sara K. Schneider, Jack Wolcott
Senior Lecturer M. Burke Walker, and Lecturers Tom Burke, Judith Shahn, Deborah Trout

Part-time Faculty
David Boushey, Jeff Caldwell, Bob Davidson, Mark Jenkins, Jeffrey Eric
Jenkins, Richard Jessup, Laurie Kurutz,
Catherine Madden, Scott Weldin

Retired, emeritus faculty and former program heads
John Ashby Conway*, Jack Clay, Betty Comtois, James Crider, Alanson B
Davis*, Gregory Falls, Vanick Galstaun, Robert Gray*, Agnes Haaga, Donal
(Dan) Harrington*, Robert Hobbs, Paul Hostetler, Glenn Hughes*, Robert
Loper, Warren Loundsbury, Michael Quinn*, Duncan Ross*, Geraldine Sikis, Jack Sydow, Aurora Valentinetti

Staff
Bob Boehler, Stage Technician
Malcolm Brown, Stage Technician
Sue Bruns, Office Assistant
Alex Danilchik, Stage Technician
Josie Gardner, Costume Shop Manager
Arlene Hamilton, Administrator
Denise Jarrett, Publicist
Dorothy Kerst, Graduate Programs
Cecile Kummerer, Computer Technician
Laurie L. Kurutz, Costumer
Anne Stewart, Production Manager
Joanne Tall, Secretary
Meri Wada, Costumer
Alan Weldin, Scene Shop Manager

*Deceased

The Studio Theatre
19th Season
43rd Production
January 24 - February 4
1996
CAST
(in order of appearance)

Trilitski (Nikolai Ivanovich)
Trilitski
Anna (Anna Petrovna Voinisiev)
Voinisiev
Sergei (Sergei Pavlovich)
Profily (Profrvy Semeyonovich)
Glagolyev
Yasha
Katya (Katya Petrina)
Platonov (Mikhail Vasilevich)
Platonov, or Mishka
Sashenka (Alexandra Ivanovna)
Platonov or Sashka
Colonel (Ivan Ivanovich)
Trilitski
Sophia (Sophia Yegorovna)
Voinisieva
Maria (Maria Yefimovna)
Grekova
Osip
Kira (Kira Profrivna)
Glagolyeva
Gorokhov

*Member of the Professional Actor Training Program

The action takes place during one day and night on a Russian country estate, early in this century.

THERE WILL BE ONE FIFTEEN MINUTE INTERMISSION

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS
Cobbler to the School of Drama
Swanson Shoe Repair—2305 North 45th St.
Seattle Repertory Theatre, Intiman Theatre Company, A Contemporary Theatre, Seattle Opera, Irina Rudakova, Carys Kresny

Platonov
By Anton Chekhov
Adaptation by Steven Pearson using translations by David Magarshack, Michael Fryan, Trevor Griffiths and others

Directed by Steven Pearson

Set Designer
Margaret Landry-Navarro*

Costume Designer
Kira Knight

Lighting Designer
Kyle A. Lemoi

Technical Director
Malcolm Brown

Stage Manager
Angela T. Volkov

Asst. Director
Charles Harper

Prop Master
Ling-Fei Hu

*Thesis production in partial completion of a Master of Fine Arts

ABOUT THE PLAYWRIGHT

It was evidently Chekhov’s idea that the elemental forces of the universe express themselves most clearly in the individual, and that it is by observing the behavior of individuals that we become aware of the great ideas that sweep the world. All of Chekhov’s plays are small in subject matter, plays of the drawing room and garden. Yet no one has painted a broader canvas, or unfolded a deeper perspective. It was his aim to write simply and accurately. No modern dramatist is more complex, and few have elicited more diverse interpretations. In the belief that a representation of life involves everything can be truly said about it, he noted in detail the symptoms of the world’s disease. So far as he could see, his world was a tissue of absurdities. It made no sense, and was probably no longer viable. He had only general therapeutic measures to suggest. Perhaps it could be nursed back to health. If not, it would die, and a new world would rise from its ashes. The question of how precisely this was to happen seemed, at the moment, unanswerable. But in two or three hundred years at the most, he was certain, the answer would be clear, and perhaps even the question. In the meantime, there was nothing for it but patience. Life was painful, but it was amusing, on the whole, an interesting and exasperating experience that one would not willingly forego. There was more to be said on the subject. “You ask, What is life?” he wrote Olga some months before his death. “That is just the same thing as asking what is a carrot. A carrot is a carrot, and nothing more is known about it.”

THE BREAKING STRING
Maurice Valency

PRODUCTION CREDITS

Assistant Stage Manager
Jan Olson
Assistant Costume Designers
Douglas Decker, Joe Galvin
Assistant Lighting Designer
Heather Wood
Additional Directing Assistance
Carys Kresny
Dramaturgical & Musical Research
Carly Esagono
Musical Arrangements
Irma Rudak
Recording Engineers
Neil Flit Work
Master Electricians
Nadja Bravo
Production Electricians
James Neat
Recording Engineer
Charles Harper

Scenic Artist
Evan Alexander, Anthony Baldocci, Chris Baldocci, Derek Baylor, Kim Cooper, Chris Delmon, David Gonzalez, Saqirre Haas, Ling-Fei Hu, Margaret Landry-Navarro, A.J. Lewis, Joel Peterson, Doug Stain, Jay Vanzke Drama 210 students

Page Management
Andrew Lieberman

Costume Construction Crew
Katie Harrold, Doris Lindahl, Anna-Lisa Sivoa

Running Crew
Drama 211 and 291 students

Lighting Crew
Jason Meimerger and Drama 212 students

José Ausinum, Elizabeth Consolvo, Philip Gaias, Mike Gilson, Psych M. Lam, Itzhak Kozaki, Lora Neil, Heather Ronnie, Kevin Robinson, Garland Spradick, Jessica Turovitch

Localization Office Staff
Mario Werner, KP Scanner

ABOUT THE PLAY

Chekhov wrote Platonov, his first major dramatic work, in his early twenties. Discovered in manuscript after his death and with its title-page missing, it was published for the first time in Russia in 1923 as A Play Without a Title.

While it is true that Platonov lacks the compactness and technical virtuosity of Chekhov’s last plays, it makes up for it by freshness and spontaneous impact, and is remarkable for revealing the early development of his genius. But what is really astonishing about Platonov and what makes it indispensable for any serious student of Chekhov’s dramatic art, is that it contains in embryo almost all of the great themes of his famous plays. There are anticipations not only of the central theme of The Cherry Orchard — the passing of an old family estate into the hands of rich businessmen — but of the important themes that occur again and again in his plays the concern with the meaning of life, the problems of leisure, or idleness, and work the desire for a “new life.” For improved social conditions, for justice and fair play, as well as the complexity of the relationships between men and women.

—DAVID MAGARSHACK

DIRECTOR’S NOTE

In this adaptation we have tried to understand the humor, the sense of the absurd, and the forgiving warmth with which Chekhov looks at the difficult and wonderful process of living. —S.P.