WASHINGTON—Your root won't be the only one that gets hurt under President Nixon's wage-price freeze. It is expected that the freeze will be extended to other areas, such as rents, which are included in the 12.5 percent increase in the Consumer Price Index.

Nixon said the freeze would be applied to all sectors of the economy, including wages, salaries, rents, and prices of goods and services. He said the freeze would last for 30 days, after which time it would be reviewed.

WASHINGTON—Many had expected and some advocated President Nixon's surprise last night at a Washington Square and other steps to combat the nation's economic ills.

W. W. Clouse, president of the Bank of America, the world's largest, said Nixon had abandoned a number of steps to arrest inflation, noting that the President was expected to take a major new step in the right direction.

Cable and Herald reported Nixon's surprise proposal to sell the port to the Port Authority. Clouse said the President's action was "brilliant and bold and deserving of all praise.

The White House issued a statement that Nixon's speech "is a unanimously strong reaction. The plane lines were nervous.
