----4,000,000 EYES ARE WATCHING YOU----

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 11.—"The present is no time to hang back on the Fourth Liberty Loan," declared Gen. Peyton C. March today. "In France today are 1,900,000 men. Another 2,000,000 are being made ready to follow the first 2,000,000.

"The maximum resources of the nation, both men and money, must be hurled at the Hun to make victory certain.

"The department has asked Congress for $8,000,000,000 to carry out the program, and the financial support of that program must not be withheld by the nation."

RETREAT 15

GREAT GERMAN Sive and the most extensive and the most dangerous retreat the German control of the most extensive and the most extensive a mans ever have conducted in the West has begun. Outflanked by Haig's advance east of Cambrai and St. Quentin, the Germans are evacuating the Chemin-des Dames and also the impregnable St. Gobain forest positions.

This movement will compel the cnemy to relinquish La Fere and Laon.

It will open the way for further advances north of Rheims. It will give the French and Americans an opportunity to drive northward in the Champagne and east as far as the Meuse. The Chemin-des-Dames and St. Gobain forest have been the "anchors" at the western end of the foe's line from La Fere to north of Verdun. Reholds will necessitate a withdrawal over a hundred-mile front, with a victorious enemy constantly pounding at his right flank and with equally eager forces insistently following up his insistently following up his rear guard.

The French and Americans in the Champagne and to the east have over-passed the most difficult country they faced at the outset of their drive. They have cleared the Argonne forest of the foe, have a strong grip on the western bank of the Meuse and are within a few miles of the important railroad center, Vouziers.

Less than twenty-five miles north lies Sedan, retention of which is vital to the maintenance of communications with Germany of the Kaiser's armies in position from Le Catcau eastward.

THE PERSON

GERMAN RIGHT ous is the posi-in GREATER tion of the DANGER. Even more seri-ous is the posi-tion of the Kaiser's armies Le Cateau northward to the sea.
The British and Americans have passed Le Cateau and still are driving castward, while the push is extending northward in the direction of Valenciennes, which is approximately twelve miles distant

Haig is east of a line drawn through this important enemy center and is but fourteen miles from the railroad junc-tion at Aulnoye, at which converge two great lines of communication which the foe must retain if he is to safe-guard his retreat from Western Bel-gium and Northwestern France.

gium and Northwestern France.
The great pocket in which lie Doual and Lille is becoming dangerously deep and a retirement from this sector and from all positions northward to tidewater must result from a further Anglo-American advance of ten to fifteen miles.

In the event of a retirement on a big scale, the enemy forces from Donai north necessarily would be compelled to move due east and would be con-fronted by an exceedingly difficult problem.

The Dutch province of Limburg pro jects southward from the mass of that country's territory. It is surrounded on three sides by Germany and Belgium and its border is south of a line drawn through Brussels

As Holland naturally would not per mit its soil to be crossed by German troops, enemy forces retreating from the west would be compelled to march due east in order to reach the German frontier. In fact, the units holding the Reigian scacoast actually would be compelled to retire in a southeasterly direction in order to get back on their

The stretch of country from the southern border of Limburg to the advancing Franco-American lines on the Meuse is the neck of a bottle through which, in the event of a general retreat, all the Germans would have to pass, with Franco-American armies threatening to narrow the bottle neck and Haig's legions constituting a spearhead constantly thrusting into the side of the retiring forces.

TO HUN PEACE PROPOSALS

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 11.—Chancellor Maximilian's peace proposal to President Wilson was made in direct opposition to the views of Emperor William, according to a report brought to London by a neutral who left Germany a few days ago. It is suggested that this may be the reason for the summoning of the common sovereigns for a conference. No official confirmation of this can be obtained here. According to a Copenhagen dispatch to The Central News, President Wilson's reply was published in the newspapers of Berlin last evening. The official North German Gazette says: "We have reason to believe that the peace step which has been commenced will be continued."

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 11.—
That conditions within Germany are extremely chaotic was indicated in all of the dispatches reaching the State Department today. Neutral countries report that the break between the Pan-Germans and the Liberals is complete. This is believed to presage a very stormy meeting of the Crown Council when it convenes tomorrow to consider the reply to President Wilson's note. It also means that eventually when the matter is put up to the Reichstag that body will have to align into war and peace factions.

HOUSE REVENUE LOAN'S SUCCESS

Mr. Jermane's Dispatch.

WASHINGTON. Friday. Oct. 11.—
New York, Philadelphia and Boston, according to information reaching this city, take the position that the lagsing of the Fourth Liberty Loan is not due so much to the epidemic of influenza and to peace talk as to the menacing character of the new war revenue bill as if passed the House, and the statement is made that only after the Senate has shown clearly a purpose to amend the bill in radical particulars will money feel safe in turning to the loan.
This, of course, does not apply to the very large number of people of small and moderate means, wage earmers and people on salaries, who could subscribe to the loan if they were disposed to do so, but to the comparatively few people in whose hands a great deal of the wealth of the country is concentrated, and who feel Mr. Jermane's Dispatch.

FOE RUNNING TOO FAST TO DESTROY FRENCH VILLAGES

THURLEY >

This interesting description of the fighting along the British front was written at the close of fighting yesterday.

Mr. Gibbs' Cable.

Mr. Gibbs' Cable.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADOUARTERS WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Thursday, Oct. 10.—The enemy is still retreating and our men are fighting around Le Cateau, famous for the hattle by the 'Old Contemptibles' in August, 1314.
Today I have been with our pressing troops far beyond the Scheldt Canal and Beaurevoir Line, through many villages into which our men have gone without a fight. Yesterday morning I had left Cambrai on a lorry driven by a soldier in a most respectable top hat, fle was as grave as a judge on the way to quarter sessions and hid a twinkle in his eye until I chaffed him for his choice of souvenirs.

It was reported that there were many explosions inside the city and that fires were spreading.

Statement Exaggerated.

Statement Exaggerated.

Statement Exaggérated.

This alarming statement was an exaggeration, although some explosions were caused by the smouldering fires near the Place du Theatre. The conflagrations have not spread and the city remains today as I saw it yesterday, with many sitreets and houses undestroyed and with beautiful gardens, inclosed in walls, so neat and trim that when I stepped inside and saw their flower beds and their fruit trees, it seemed to me like enchantment, beyond the ruft through which we have waded in four years of fighting. Today I had a similar feeling when I went beyond the battle zone and came for the first time into the undestroyed villages, where there were real roofs on upstanding houses and walls with red bricks unpierced by monstrous shell holes, and shops and schools and market places, just as in the French villages behind our lines and beyond gun range, yet these places were in front of where our fighting lines have been, and mill a night and a morning ago behind the German lines; and on way to that lies through a forty-mile belt of evidential to the strough a forty-mile belt of evidential or the whole dopth of our advance since August 8, and every mile (Continued on Page Three.)

Boches Losing Heavily In Attempts to Escape From Powerful Positions Being Encircled By British, French and American Forces.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 11.—The Germans are evacuating the famous Chemin-Des-Dames under the pressure of the converging attacks west and south of it. The Hindenburg line behind Laon, between the Rivers Serre and Sissonne has been turned, making the German situation in the Laon area most difficult.

Associated Press Summary.

THE grip of the Germans on Northern France has been loosened and the process of herding them back to their borders is proceeding at an increasingly rapid pace under the Allied Iash, says today's Associated Press summary of news from the theatre of war.

Already, since the beginning of the July offensive, which initiated the loosening process, the Allies have pushed the enemy back a maximum of forty-five miles, from the Ancre near Albert, to the tip of the present Anglo-American wedge at Le Cateau. Carrying Ont Big Retreat.

Carrying Ont Big Retreat.

A scant twenty-five miles more will bring them on this line to the Belgian frontier south of Manbeuge. But long before that point is reached the pressure on all sides, if continued at the present rate, will have resulted in the clearing of the enemy from virtually all French territory and a great part of Belgian soil.

The Germans, indeed, are already carrying out a general retreat. But it is a retreat under pressure, and although being skilfully conducted, is bound to cost them heavily in men and material.

Foch Keeps Up-Pressure.

Foch Keeps Up-Pressure.

General Ludendorff patently has been destrous of withdrawing to a shorter line where he could reorganize his forces, but the steady, unrelenting pressure which Marshal Foch has applied all along the front has made it impossible for him to detach himself for such an operation.

He cannot break contact with his adversary, as he would like to do, and consequently is obliged to fall back slowly, fighting hard-and losing heavily in his backward course.

Last night's developments and those of today along the wide battlefront only served to accentuate the extent of the German retreat and the acceleration of its pace.

The official reports reveal the Britana Americans still widening the its pace.

reports reveal the Briticans still widening the isin and Americans still widening the great wedge in the German line south-east of Cambral, a process in which the French to the south are alding notably. French Aiding British.

French Aiding British.

General Petain's troops have pushed to the River Oise to a point almost as far north as Guise, where they join up with the Eritish and Americans who are rapidly nearing the important railway junction of Wassigny, south and east of Le Cateau.

This sensational drive in the center is matched in efficiency, however, by the terrific pressure of the French armies south of Laon and along the line north of the Alsne and in the Champagne.

This movement, in conjunction with the drive to the north is according to today's advices, making it inevitable that the Germans retire from Laon and the great St. Gobain massif.

The withdrawai, indeed, appears to be under way here as elsewhere. The Americans are with the French in applying the pressure in the Champagne and the American lat Army in its drive in the Argonne area, has joined hands with General Petain's troops at Grandpre.

Farther east the strong line on which the Germans stood to resist the American drive west of the Meuse is mportant Advances East of Argonne Forest Scored by Dashing Attack of Yanks,

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Friday, Oct. 11.—(By The Associated Press,)—Heavy artillery firing in the region west of artiflery firing in the region west of the Meuse River began early today. The Americans started the action, before daylight and the tombardment was re-sponded to by the Germans. Fires are reported in the region of many towns behind the lines and it is believed these were started by the American shells.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Friday, Oct. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—American forces struck the German lines just east of the Argonne forest yesterday. They captured the villages of Sommerance, Chevieres and Marcq. The ridge of Dame Marie was stormed after hard fighting. More than 1.000 prisoners were taken. These include one colonel and two battalion staffs. Fighting opened in the morning with the infantry sweeping through the northern portion of the forest for a maximum distance of nearly five miles. Little epoposition was encountered from the enemy, who had probably retired during the night to escape from the untenable pocket formed by the American flanking movement on Monday. Take Strong Positions.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Americans were in Marcq and Chevieres, having taken the La Folic farm and the Richard farm, and advancing on the Negemont woods, the only piece of forest land between them and Grandpre.

Half an hour later they had captured Sommerance and had advanced north of that village. By this attack the Americans have taken a firmer grip on
