KIDNEYS WEAKENING? LOOK OUT!

Kidney and bladder troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow upon you, slowly but steadily, undermining your health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease.

Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you feel that you are entirely free from pain.

This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1696 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its preparation and sale.

The good housewife of Holland would almost as soon be without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops," as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Their use restores strength and is responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders.

Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. MORE ROOMS NEEDED TO SOLVE PROBLEMS

Many Shipyard Workers and Mustered Out Service Men Want Accommodations.

More housekeeping rooms, suites, apartments, furnished and unfurnished rooms and rooms with hotel conveniences are needed by the United States Homes Registration Service to care for the men returning to Seattle after being mustered out of service, and for shipyard workers.

A telegram has been received by the Seattle Home Registration Service from Washington, D. C., urging the bureau in no way to slacken its efforts to provide homes for the people coming to this city because of any armistice. The work of the bureau, which has probably provided 12,500 shipyard workers with places to live since it was established last January, was complimented by the government and urged to continue its good work.

Though many "for rent" rooms and houses are listed with the Registration Service at its offices, 1035 Arcade Building, many more are needed, as returned soldiers are filling up the city. Any one with rooms which can be sublet, or who wishes a place to live, is requested to visit the bureau or to telephone Elliott 1572.

TELLS OF HUGE "MURDER FUND."

NEW YORK, Tuesday, Dec. 3.—William Simon, wealthy poultry dealer, arrested about a year ago on an indictment charging first degree murder in connection with the shooting of Barnet Baff, a rival poultry dealer, has made a full confession, it was said yesterday at the attorney-general's office, implicating more than twenty men as contributors to a "murder fund," with which gunmen were hired to kill Baff. It was said a special grand jury will be empaneled and the entire Baff case will be reopened.

WIFIE GETS DECISION; HUBBY FREED

FOR a period of eighteen hours, or up to the time that Police Judge John B. Gordon rendered the decision, Charles Witcofsky, shipyard worker of Ballard, really thought he had won the fight; that is the Witcofsky vs. Witcofsky five-minute, one-round affair.

It appeared from what Patrolman E. E. Faust of the Ballard substation could discover, that neighbors, hearing the racket, telephoned for police help; that when Faust arrived, Mr. and Mrs. Witcofsky were in a clinch which he had some trouble in breaking; that the man had "given away" ten pounds, he weighing 170 and his wife 180, and that evidently, as all past police experience had shown, the man must be the aggressor.

The patrolman said he learned that the husband had returned home and found his wife not there, neither she nor the dinner, and that a subsequent search brought her to light at the home of a neighbor woman, the pair of them discussing something or other, not clear to Faust, but quite intelligible to the husband's ear.

The Witcofskys went home to settle their differences. The patrolman dropped in while the settlement was in progress. The husband was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and the wife was taken along and booked as a witness, but released on her personal recognizance.

As the story was being told in police court, following an eighteen-hour rest of Witcofsky on a concrete bed in the central police station jail, the accused man repeatedly told how he had "whipped" his wife. Finally the star witness couldn't stand any more of this listening to how she "had been whipped."

"Judge, look at his face," said Mrs. Witcofsky, "and then look at me." You can count six marks on his cheek, jaw and forehead. I put them there. I did it with my fists, too. I hit him six times and every one counted. He hit me five times and there isn't a mark. Huh! Who do you think, judge, was 'whipped?'"

The court paused but a moment—and gave the decision to Mrs. Witcofsky. Also the court gave Charles Witcofsky his freedom, with the remark, "Apparently, you've been punished enough."

Seattle Women's Patriotic Work

MORE than sixty dollars was cleared Saturday by the sale of the Christmas novelties from the Red Cross Jumble Shop table in the lobby of the New Washington Hotel. As that represented only the sales from one day and evening, Miss Emma Timberlake, in charge, feels quite elated. The Saturday before, the opening day for the display of Christmas fancy work, more than thirty-five dollars was cleared, which with a similar sum in the fancy-work department of the Jumble Shop, under the same management, brought quite a sum to the coffers of the organization. Beautiful desk sets, lamps with attractive shades and all kinds of beautiful bags are placed in the hotel each Saturday. They are sold for the benefit of the Red Cross Jumble Shop. Very shortly a number of small baskets filled with tiny glasses of marmalade will be on sale in the same department.

All those who took the tiny red stockings to fill with dimes from the National League for Woman's Service and have not returned them are urgently requested to do so by one of the women of the league who gave them out. There is just barely time to send the little filled stockings across seas to bring Christmas cheer to the little Belgian and French children made destitute by the war. Every moment of delay in sending the money to France means perhaps a delayed Christmas celebration for some little child. Send them today to the league headquarters or to the White Elephant Shop.

Mrs. Anna Thomsen-Milburn, chairman of the luncheon room of the Red Cross Jumble Shop, says there is an urgent need of more "kitchen police" in the kitchen of the shop for Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The kitchen is quite one of the most important places in connection with the Jumble Shop, and in no place is assistance more appreciated than in the department where the appetizing table concoctions are put together.

Sacks of potatoes and boxes of apples are gifts the luncheon room is in need of. Anyone having a surplus of those commodities will receive the thanks of those in charge of the luncheon room if they will send them to the shop.

BATS HELP STOP MALARIA.

DALLAS, Tex., Wednesday, Dec. 4.—Start a bat roost and help rid the country of disease, is the admonition of Dr. Charles A. Campbell of San Antonio, who recently attended the Southwestern Medical Association meeting here.

Malaria, he says, is one of man's worst enemies, and the lowly bat as a combatant of the disease is highly valuable. Dr. Campbell has worked on his theory for seventeen years, perfecting it scientifically only during the war.

"The malaria mosquito and the bat are both nocturnal and the mosquito furnishes 50 per cent of the bat's food," he said. "All that is needed to combat the mosquito and resultant malaria is to furnish the bat with a home. A roost similar to the method of keeping bees in one's backyard will suffice, for the bat knows its home and will return after a night's foraging. In my backyard I have many of these sanitary workers."

WILSON NOT HASTY, SAYS MAYOR HANSON

Reconstruction and His Trip to Europe Planned Early in the War, He Declares.

President Woodrow Wilson's decision to attend the peace conference was not hasty judgment, but was the result of long consideration. Mayor Hanson told the Seattle Municipal League at the Masonic Club yesterday afternoon. He said that long before the end of the war was in sight President Wilson was working out reconstruction problems and planning to attend the peace conference that would undoubtedly follow the end of the fighting. Mayor Hanson spoke on "Reconstruction," taking the place of Prof. Stephen I. Miller, on the program to speak on after-the-war employment problems, but who was detained by illness in the family.

"When I was in Washington, D. C., last summer and was permitted an hour's interview with President Wilson, the big problems with which he was especially concerned was not winning the war, but what was to take place after the war," Mayor Hanson said. "Winning the war was only a question of men, ships, ammunition and supplies, and the President seemed to have no doubt that they would be supplied as needed, but he was concerned with the problems that would have to be met after the war. He spoke of the peace conference that would follow the end of the war and expected to attend it to learn what the great men who would be there know and carry their message back to the United States."

Mayor Hanson said the biggest reconstruction problem is to find employment for the man who wants it at a wage sufficient to enable him to live and support his family in reasonable comfort.

Labor Problem Big One.

"The man whose stomach is empty or who has to pay an exorbitant price for the things to sustain life will not long remain a law-abiding citizen," he said. "If such men as the members of the Municipal League do not take an active interest in working out reconstruction problems you may be sure that somebody else will. Besides dealing with the question of employment for returned soldiers, we have another employment element to deal with. Due to the shortage of other labor, many women have entered fields closed to them before. Old men shunted to one side were called back to industry. Both are making good and must be considered in the reconstruction plans."

Mayor Hanson advocated giving every person who wants to go on the land an opportunity to do so and urged state and federal cooperation to bring large areas of idle land under cultivation.

Remsberg Indorsed.

The league committee on harbor development, in a report reviewing the qualifications of the candidates for port commissioner, C. E. Remsberg, Dr. W. T. Christiansen and Richard M. Ruttle, recommended the election of Remsberg because of his past experience on the port commission.

The committee reported in part as follows on the three candidates:

"The electors of the port are fortunate in having such good citizens from whom to make a choice. We feel, however, that as long as Remsberg is willing to serve again, the port is entitled to the benefit of his experience in and study of port problems in general, and those peculiar to the port of Seattle. We therefore favor his re-election."

Equal Pay Advocated.

Henry R. King and Walter J. Santmyer, candidates for the school board, addressed the league by request and outlined the policies they will follow if elected. Both advocated equal pay for equal service and Santmyer a general increase in all salaries and an eight-hour day for school employes. He said the efforts of the present board to save money required the engineer to leave the heating plant for two hours at a time to do janitor work and that no one was in charge of steam boilers carrying a pressure of 100 pounds of steam, with hundreds of children in the class rooms directly above the boilers. Santmyer said he will keep the engineer where he belongs and hire janitors to do janitor work.

King said he would make the school a place for the development of good citizens. He said he believed that if the parents were unable to supply the essentials necessary for the development of young lives the state ought to do so through the schools. He advocated giving the school authorities power to investigate the home conditions of pupils and provide whatever was lacking.

Lees Beats Phillips For Commissioner

J. W. Lees, a South Park contractor, yesterday was elected commissioner for the Duwamish Waterway District for the unexpired two-year period of the term of D. Hamm, who died this year after having served on the board since the inception of the project. Max C. Schmidt, manager of the Georgetown Branch of the Union Trust & Savings Bank, was reelected for a three-year term. Fred Newell, the third member of the board, holds over.

Lees and Fred Phillips, a South Park real estate agent, were candidates for the place after Hamm's death. Judge J. T. Ronald at that time settled the contest by lot, Phillips winning.

In yesterday's election Lees won, 355 to 267. Schmidt polled 462 votes. He was unopposed.

A very large percentage of all Olive Oil and the very highest grades came from France and Italy, but for the last four years on account of the great war this supply has been stopped and as production of American Olive Oil is entirely inadequate to fill the needs of our people manufacturers have turned their attention to oils from other sources.

Out of the many we have found one which stands preeminent, an improvement in some ways over the very best Olive Oils and at half their present cost.

Marcella Oil is made from peanuts, no coloring or adulteration of any kind. For mayonnaise for French dressing Marcella will suit the most fastidious taste. We are enthusiastic in its praise.
