SEATTLE FIRMS LAG IN STAMP DRIVE, HE SAYS

Only 150 Out of 3,000 Business Institutions Take Out Limit Subscriptions.

Estimate was made today by Judge Frederick V. Brown, in charge of the Q. Q. Drive for War Savings, that out of about 3,000 firms and corporations in Seattle, only 150 thus far had availed themselves of the patriotic duty of taking out limit War Savings subscriptions. War Savings headquarters are preparing an honor roll of the companies, which it believes have done their utmost for the War Savings cause.

SEATTLE SCHOOLS GAIN 3,129 PUPILS

Enrollment on 1918 Opening Day Was 36,744, Compared With 33,615 Last Year.

Seattle public schools reopened yesterday with an attendance of 36,744 pupils, a gain of 3,129 over the total of 33,615 on the first day in 1917. The six Seattle high schools reopened with a gain of 236 pupils over 1917, but the number is still twenty-four lower than on the first day in 1916. But for the demands from war industries and enlistments in federal service which are taking older high school pupils there would have been the largest gain in the city's history. However, the school board foresees the lack of growth in the high schools during the war period and has taken no steps to begin work on the seventh high school building, which must be ready for occupancy when normal conditions are restored.

Explains Vocational Classes.
At the Broadway High School the first attempt at continuous school from 8:30 a. m. until 10:30 p. m. was made and the returns were highly gratifying to Vocational Director Charles Kirkpatrick, who there seems to be some understanding as to the character of the classes. To make the work clear to the public, Director Kirkpatrick today issued the following statement:

"Workers, who desire to attend school part time and work part time, both under and over 18 years of age, will be accommodated at the Broadway High School for either grammar or high school work at 8:15, 4:15 and 5:15 each day. Any high school subject for which a sufficient number enroll will be given, and credits toward graduation may be made by those taking the work. The school work is adapted to help the students in their industrial work, and employers are urged to let employees off to attend these classes."

"Continuation classes for pupils who have not completed the eighth grade will be held at the time of day and place that will be most convenient for those attending. These grammar school continuation classes for employees in stores and offices will be held at Central School on Seventh and Madison, for the South End school at the corner of the Youngstown School. In this way opportunity will be given for those people to complete their grammar school education and work four or six hours at the same time."

Urges Patriotic Drills.
City Superintendent Cooper has issued a circular letter to all principals calling attention to the plan for patriotic drills and the necessity for holding a flag drill at least once a week in each school room in the city. The salute to the flag and the pledge of allegiance may be given at any time desired. At most of the rooms yesterday the children saluted the flag as they took their places.

The School Board met formally late yesterday afternoon to agree on a 1918-19 budget for the coming year. The budget will provide for a 10-cent tax, but some of the items are not yet agreed upon.

SEATTLE MAN PROMOTED.
W. F. Flanley, who left here as a first lieutenant in the Washington Signal Corps thirteen months ago, was made a captain while on service in France, on August 12, according to a cablegram received by his father, E. F. Flanley, 2928 Federal Ave.

Flanley went to the Mexican border in 1916 as a private and returned from the 10th Cavalry. When the battalion was being organized for overseas duty, Flanley took the officers' examinations and received a commission as first lieutenant. He was then acting as acting adjutant at battalion headquarters in France, according to letters received.

DENVER RAISES CAR FARES.
DENVER, Colo., Wednesday, Sept. 4.—By a vote last night the city council last night passed an ordinance authorizing the Denver City Tramway Company to raise street car fares from 5 to 6 cents.

Forest Fires Spreading.
HOOD RIVER, Ore., Wednesday, Sept. 4.—A forest fire on Vinton Creek near the Columbia River Highway yesterday was burning westward by a strong east wind and last night was burning fiercely in timber of the national forest west of Mitchell Point. In less than twenty-four hours the fire spread over six square miles. Crews of fire fighters are endeavoring to save the bodies of timber along the highway. The Mitchell Point Lumber Company mill is threatened.

Garin Pillages Towns.
GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Wednesday, Sept. 4.—After several months of inactivity, brought about by the vigorous campaign waged against him by Mexican troops, the rebel leader Garin is attacking and pillaging small towns and ranches in the adjoining state.

THE BON MARCHÉ

The Day of the Autumn Suit

THE BON MARCHE'S DISPLAYS OF NEW FALL MODELS ARE FULL OF PROMISE FOR THE EARLY BUYER

Bon Marche Values Are Full of Interest

GRACEFUL in line, serviceable in material and extremely up to the minute in style, the new autumn suit is attracting far more than its share of attention at the Fashion displays. Every woman in Seattle wishes for a suit this fall while wool cloth is still available and while serviceable tailored styles are the fashion.

Prices Start at $25 and Rise by Easy Stages to $250.00

STYLES ARE SO PRACTICAL IN DEPENDABLE WOOL CLOTHS SOMBER COLORS PREVAIL

It has been many seasons since suit styles held to such good looking conservative lines. The slender silhouette is correct, with jackets either to the finger tips or longer and skirts longer and narrow.

The autumn suit comes in such splendid wool cloths—serges, velours, silvertones, broadcloths, tweeds, twills and suede fabrics. All these—when it is but a matter of days until all-wool becomes difficult to secure.

As though to be worn for years, the fall suits are shown in dull shades, those that hold up the best in navy, black, brown, green, odd blues and grays, with an occasional brighter variation.
