Promoting public health research, policy, and practice is the mission of the American Journal of Public Health. As we widen our scope to embrace global issues, we also broaden our focus to support the needs of public health practitioners. We invite contributions of original unpublished research, opinion and commentary, departments, and letters to the editor.

Cover: The abandoned rickety wood fence at the edge of a meadow, a symbol of the transformation that occurs in rural areas each year, with the leaves and flowers of wildflowers dotting the landscape, and the old wooden fence standing as a reminder of the past.
