CONTENTS
JULY/AUGUST 2004 • VOL. 24, NUMBER 4

COVER STORIES
13 .... Student Drug Testing Is Part of the Solution
The executive director of the Drug Free America Foundation views it as an effective tool for identifying and preventing drug problems
by Calvin L. Ray

17 .... Drug Testing in Schools: Good Practice or Good Politics?
The author says few data support this "politically popular" practice
by Oscar G. Bukstein, MD, MPH

21 .... Telepsychiatry's Potential in Schools Bringing psychiatric services to kids with phone and Internet technologies
by Thomas L. Young, MD, FAAP

25 .... School Nurses' Important Mental Health Role
A corps of healthcare providers remains untapped—but is ready to help with troubled young people
by Janis Hootman, RN, PhD, NCSN, and Janice DeSocio, RN, PhD, PMHNP

SPECIAL REPORT
36 .... ADHD: Not for "Boys Only"
by Patricia O. Quinn, MD

34 .... Treatment of ADHD in Latino Populations
by Ricardo B. Eiraldi, PhD, and Laurie B. Mazzuco, PhD

FEATURE ARTICLE
37 .... Targeting Prescription Drug Abuse—A New Federal Initiative
Background on the White House's plan to address this increasing problem—plus a list of helpful Web resources
by Trusandra Taylor, MD

SPECIAL SECTION
51 .... Pharmacologic Trends in Behavioral Health: ADHD and Substance Abuse. The fourth installment in a yearlong series on drug therapies' impact on patient treatment and management

DEPARTMENTS
6 .... Editorial
Meeting Schoolchildren's Mental Health Needs
by Monica E. Ors, Editor-in-Chief

9 .... Guest Editorial
New Antipsychotic Drugs: The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly
by John J. Gelenberg, MD

11 .... Washington Insights
The Campaign for Accountable Treatment: An Interview with Haasler's William C. Meyers
by Michael J. Stuel, PhD

42 .... Views on Technology
Partners for a Blended EMR Conversion
by Michael D. Morris Ken Buckle, PhD, and Lorraine Harrington, CRNP, MS

44 .... Facility Design Showcase
Downtown State Hospital, Terre Haute, Indiana

46 .... As I See It
Preficiency Tests Leave Stressed Children Behind
by Douglas J. Edwards, Managing Editor

47 .... Product Spotlight

48 .... Views from the Trenches
The Bottom Line Is No Longer "Confidential"
by J. Chip Drotos, MSW, CEAP, Associate Publisher