WHAT IS MAKING CONNECTIONS?

Making Connections is a college readiness program that serves high school women from socio-economically disadvantaged backgrounds in the Seattle area. The Making Connections program encourages these young women to pursue higher education, assists them with the college application process, and exposes them to careers in the STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) and other fields. By participating in Making Connections students realize their capabilities to pursue higher education and a career in the STEM fields. The program supports these young women through individual academic advising, tutoring, and mentoring. Tutors are an important component of Making Connections because they offer schoolwork and college application assistance, guidance, support, and motivation to these young women in achieving their highest aspirations.
