Speaker Information:

Dr. Crystal Lee was born and raised on the Navajo Nation. Her tribal clans are Tachii’nii (Red Running into the Water), Tabaaaha (Water’s Edge), Tsenjikini (Cliff Dwellers), and Kin I ichii’nii (Red House). She completed her undergraduate degree(s) at Arizona St. University; MPH and PhD in Public Health degree(s) at University of Las Vegas-Nevada; MLS in Indigenous Peoples Law at University of Oklahoma, College of Law; Predoctoral Fellowship at Johns Hopkins University, Bloomberg School of Public Health; and her Postdoctoral Fellowship at University of California-Los Angeles, David Geffen School of Medicine.

Currently she is faculty, Assistant Professor, at University of New Mexico, College of Population Health. In addition, Dr. Lee is an Indigenous HIV/AIDS Research Training Fellow at University of Washington, Indigenous Wellness Research Institute. She conducts infectious disease biomedical prevention research with a focus on Native American health and examines Indigenous health policies at a tribal, state-tribal coordination, national, and international level. She is Founder/CEO of United Natives, a non-profit organization that serves Indian Country on multiple initiatives (www.unitednatives.org), Founder/CEO of Dr. b Collections, a Native American fashion line (www.drbcollections.com) and Owner of two men's professional basketball team in Mexico (Tecate Magic and Rosarito Sun). United Natives was featured as one of USA Today's top non-profits addressing COVID-19 in Indian Country nationwide.

She serves as Vice Chair for the Clark County NV, Democratic Party Native Caucus, Advisor for the Nevada Office of Minority Health and Equity; and on the United Nations (UN) North American Indigenous Caucus, UN Indigenous Women’s Caucus, and UN Gender Equality Task Force. She served as a Tribal Health Advisor to the Obama Administration and was honored by President Bill Clinton for her work with Indigenous communities at the Clinton Global Initiative. Dr. Lee also serves as the Board Chair for the Las Vegas Indian Center and Board of Director of Diversity and Inclusion for L’Oreal USA. She was the 12th class of the National Center for American Indian Enterprise Development's 40-under-40 award.

Talk Information:

Examining Knowledge and Attitudes Towards Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) Among Native American College Students

Native American/Alaska Natives (NA/ANs) represent underserved populations that should be included in the nationwide effort to optimize HIV care and prevention strategies. To achieve this, it is critical to understand knowledge and attitudes among NA/ANs regarding pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP).
awareness and acceptability. This study examined key sociocultural factors, including barriers and facilitators that will guide PrEP care continuum among NA/AN population.