Entering Class of 2013

TRUST seeks to provide a continuous connection between rural, small city underserved communities, medical education, and health professionals in our region. Our goal is to create a full-circle pipeline by guiding qualified students through a special curriculum that connects continuity communities in WWAMI to the University of Washington School of Medicine and its network of affiliated residency programs in an effort to help meet the workforce needs of the region.

Hello, Butte!

I am so excited to be joining you this summer for RUOP!

I consider myself a nearly native Montanan – I was born in Wisconsin, but moved to this great state before my first birthday. I grew up in Billings with my two siblings, Anne and Dave. After graduating from Billings West High School, I ventured off to college. In 2010, I graduated from Montana State University with a degree in Biomedical Sciences. During my senior year of college, I worked at the Montana Office of Rural Health and Area Health Education Center (AHEC) as an INBRE public health research intern primarily on community health projects. It was there my love of rural health began. I worked at AHEC for three more years, incorporating evidence-based guidelines for community health initiatives. During this time, I earned my Masters degree in Health Sciences with a focus on community health. I have been able to continue some of this work as a part of the National Rural Health Association student board. In my free time, I enjoy cooking, hiking, learning to play guitar, and spending time with friends and family.
