

University of Washington School of Medicine
And
University of Idaho WWAMI

TRUST Program

Targeted Rural Underserved Track

UW Medicine
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

Hello Terry Reilly, Nampa, and the greater Treasure Valley! My name is Madison Skogsberg and I am a 1st year medical student at The University of Washington. Born in Nampa, raised in Kuna, and educated at The College of Idaho in Caldwell, I am a true Treasure Valley native and absolutely cannot wait to learn all about practicing medicine right here at home. While undecided on my future field, I have always dreamed of returning to Idaho and reaching out to the underserved populations here. Over the next few years, I am looking forward to developing skills specific to serving Idaho's healthcare needs, refining my Spanish abilities, and discerning what area of medicine I would like to pursue. When I am not at the clinic or buried in a textbook, one may find me dancing around to Zumba, reading a good novel, cooking authentic Ecuadorian food, or hitting up a fun show. Despite living in Nature's playground my entire life, I was often too busy with sports, school or traveling on mission trips to truly take advantage of all Idaho has to offer. So I hope to change that: take some hikes, re-learn to ski and go on any other adventures I may find!

Please Welcome
University of Washington
School of Medicine
1st Year Student

~~~~~
Madison Skogsberg
mskogs@uw.edu

Jonathon Bowman,
MD is the primary preceptor for the Nampa, ID TRUST site.

For More Information on the Idaho TRUST Program Contact:

Stephen Hall, MD

Associate Director— Idaho TRUST 1st Year Coordinator
University of Idaho WWAMI Medical Education Program
sphall@uidaho.edu

