Entering Class of 2016

TRUST seeks to provide a continuous connection between rural, small city underserved communities, medical education, and health professionals in our region. Our goal is to create a full-circle pipeline by guiding qualified students through a special curriculum that connects continuity communities in WWAMI to the University of Washington School of Medicine.

Hello Wasilla Community.

My name is Alex Morgan, and I am entering the University of Washington WWAMI TRUST program this fall. I look forward to learning more about rural medicine, and expanding my knowledge of rural communities beyond my current scope over the next 4 years.

I was born in Anchorage, Alaska. I grew up and attended school in Nome, Alaska. I received my Bachelors of Science in Biology at the University of Alaska at Fairbanks. During my time in high school and summers home from college, I volunteered with the Nome ambulance department. I became certified as an EMT level 3, and received the “EMT of the Year” award for Nome in 2010. The experience of assisting people as an EMT led me to want to become a physician. My goal is to practice in rural Alaska, and I applied to the TRUST program to receive the appropriate training.

I have been to multiple regions in Alaska, and even completed a road trip across it. But I have not yet visited Wasilla. I look forward to Wasilla’s forests and rivers, and the melding of rural and urban areas. In my time off, I am an avid reader, and enjoy spending time in the country four-wheeling, fishing, and exploring with friends. I look forward to seeing you all soon.
