Entering Class of 2014

TRUST seeks to provide a continuous connection between rural, small city underserved communities, medical education, and health professionals in our region. Our goal is to create a full-circle pipeline by guiding qualified students through a special curriculum that connects continuity communities in WWA-MI to the University of Washington School of Medicine and its network of affiliated residency programs in an effort to help meet the workforce needs of the region.

Hello! My name is Meghan Webber, and I am the E-2014 TRUST Scholar for McCall, Idaho. I grew up in Boise, Idaho, surrounded by outdoor activities such as hiking, biking, hunting, fishing, and camping. My sister and I grew up diving into the outdoors and activities in the Boise area with our parents, and every summer we journeyed to vacation and explore the area around McCall. I graduated from Timberline High School in Boise, and moved to Portland, Oregon for undergraduate studies. I graduated from Concordia University with a Bachelor of Arts in Biology, and then taught outdoor school for the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry. After a year of teaching ecology and expanding my love of the Pacific Northwest, I started working in the emergency department in Salem, Oregon as a medical scribe. I was fortunate to be able to travel around the country training future scribes, eventually settling down in the Portland area as a scribe manager. I am excited to return home to Idaho for my medical education, and to have my continuous TRUST experience in McCall.
