

Cell Analysis Facility
Flow and Imaging Cytometry
Core Lab

January 10th, 2022

Dear Cell Analysis Facility Users,

I wanted to let you know that I am resigning as Director of the CAF on February 18th and moving to Fred Hutch to oversee their flow cytometry shared resources.

I am grateful for the opportunity that I was given 19 years ago to run the CAF, and I have enjoyed my time here and the relationships I have made immensely. I am excited about my new role and the opportunity to grow professionally. However, my decision to leave was not easy, I have devoted myself to establishing a lab that would meet the needs of a diverse research community, and I hope that I have had a positive impact on the research that utilizes flow cytometry at the University of Washington. It has been a pleasure to work with so many accomplished researchers, and I sincerely thank the Department of Immunology and School of Medicine for their support over the years.

The Department of Immunology is working to find my replacement, and I will update facility users when I know more about who will be taking over the management of the CAF.

In the meantime, I am always happy to answer questions and help when I can. I wish you continued success in your research and look forward to opportunities to stay in touch with you.

Best,

Michèle Black
