

A Regional Center for Excellence in Media Literacy and A Partnership of Gonzaga University and the University of Washington presents

“Thinking Out Loud” with Jackson Katz

Tough Guise: Violence, Media and the Crisis in Masculinity

- What are the questions we should ask about the characterization of masculinity in the media?
- How is sexism promoted in magazines, videos, music and video games?
- What questions should we be asking regarding our own attitudes and actions that inadvertently perpetuate sexism and violence, and how can we work toward changing them?

Jackson Katz is the creator of the award winning video Tough Guise and has published widely in academic journals and popular newspapers. He has appeared on many television shows and has served as a consultant and trainer on gender violence prevention programs for the US Marine Corps and the New England Patriots. He founded the Mentors in Violence Prevention Program at Northeastern University's Center for the Study of Sport in society the most widely utilized gender prevention program in college athletics.

Tuesday April 13, 2004
7:30 PM
Barbieri Moot Court Room
Gonzaga School of Law

Free and Open to the Public and for more information contact the NW-ARM at Gonzaga at 323-3588

Co-Sponsors include: Office of Student Life, the School of Professional Studies, the Center for Community Action and Service Learning, Women's Studies Dept., University Ministry, VP for Mission, Bacchus, Communication Arts Department and the MA Program in Communication and Leadership Studies