POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP
UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON
DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY
&
COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

We invite applications for a two-year postdoctoral researcher position in social psychology to work with Dr. Sapna Cheryan in the Department of Psychology and Dr. Joyce Yen in the College of Engineering.

The successful candidate will collaborate with Dr. Cheryan and undergraduate and graduate students on projects aimed at understanding questions of stereotyping, prejudice, and discrimination. The postdoc will also work on a project for the College of Engineering and have the opportunity to develop their own projects. In addition, the postdoc will teach a class in the College of Engineering on how to create a welcoming climate for women, people of color, and people with disabilities. For more information about this class (which has been taught by Dr. Cheryan and Dr. Yen for the past 10 years), please see https://www.engr.washington.edu/peers/seminar.html.

Qualifications

• Ph.D. in social psychology
• Strong track record of publication
• Strong track record of teaching and mentoring
• Strong experimental design, writing, and data analysis experience
• Candidates should work well independently and have strong interpersonal skills

Application: Please send the following materials in order in a single PDF to scheryan@uw.edu

• Curriculum vitae
• Names of two faculty members who can be contacted for letters of recommendation (do not send actual letters)
• A 2-3 page personal statement highlighting past (especially relevant) research experience and career goals
• A 1 page teaching statement describing the following: Experience and record of teaching (including summary of evaluations); Experience with active learning, small group work, and/or broad classroom engagement
• A 1 page diversity statement describing professional skills, experience, and/or interests in engaging in activities that enhance diversity and equity
• A writing sample

Applications will be considered on a rolling basis and are due by February 10th for full consideration. Preferred start date is spring or fall 2020. Applications and questions should be directed to Sapna Cheryan (scheryan@uw.edu).
The University of Washington is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from applicants who can contribute to the diversity of the university and department.