

PART I: CONVERSATION TOPIC GUIDE

TO BE COMPLETED BY DYADS

1. Conversation topics. (This is a guide. It is unnecessary to elicit responses to each of these questions. The goal is to try to get to engagement from both members of the dyad, personal stories/narrative; local history information; attitudes toward being NWerner)

1.1 Local Color:

- Would you say that [insert locale name here] is a nice place to live? Why or why not?
- Do you think you have to have grown up here to be a [insert locale name here]-ite? Do you consider yourself a Northwesterner?

1.2 Pacific-northwest narrative and community history:

Family roots module:

- If identifies as Northwesterner, elicit family stories (when did they arrive? what did they find? where had they come from? )
- Is there anything unique about your neighborhood/city? Anything that makes it different from other neighborhoods or special?
- What are the best neighborhoods to live in?

Changes module:

- What types of jobs do people have here? (*)
  - Have you had a favorite job? What was it? Why did you like it?
  - What would you like to see the government do to increase work opportunities locally?
- *YV -The fruit industry is important here. Do you have family that have worked in this industry for a long time?
- Where do you think most of the people are from in the NW? California resentment?
- Are there lots of new houses going up in your neighborhood? Feelings about this?
- What cities do you think are included in the Metro area? Are Vancouver/Everett part of the Metro area?
- Are there things that you would like outsiders (e.g., people from other parts of the state) to know about what your family or community has contributed to Washington's history or economy?

Leisure module:

- What do you do for fun on the weekends?
- (If respondent is PNWer, Is this different from what you did as a child? If yes: who did you hang out with as a child? Where were their families from? How far back did they go in the PNW?)
- Are there sports teams do you support?
- What newspapers do you read?
- (*) What radio stations do you listen to? Are important around here?
- What other cities do you go to for recreation or shopping? (Pick 2 or 3 largest cities in vicinity and explore the choice between them for different activities.)
- (*) Are there local festivals, events or ceremonies that your family goes to?
- (*) Do you ever go outside the region for events or leisure activities?

1.3 Communication Experience and Travel:

- Have you noticed that people in different parts of the country talk differently from yourself? What sort of differences have you noticed?

- Have you ever had a problem understanding people in other parts of the country because of their accent or because of different words they used?
- Do you think there is a unique way of talking in the Northwest? Different from California? What about other towns in WA/OR? Eastern/Western?

1.4 Syntactic Variation (positive anymore):

Ask more questions about what life was like in the past in their area, and what has changed.

- What kinds of things did you do as a child growing up? Is that different from the kinds of things you do now? How?
- What were people like around here (or where you lived) when you were growing up? Have they changed?
- Did people talk differently where you grew up when you were younger?
- Tell me about your neighborhood growing up. How has it changed since you were young?
- Do you think these changes are good or bad and why?
- Other ideas for conversation topics: tech industry in Seattle, how it's changing things...

PART II: DEMOGRAPHIC AND SOCIAL NETWORK QUESTIONNAIRE

2. MINIMAL PAIRS

Now I need you to say certain words, but I don't want to say them first because that may influence the way you say them. So I'll ask you questions that get you to say the words and then we'll talk about whether certain words sound the same or different to you. OK? (It's not a test or anything; it's just a way of getting you to say certain words. I'll give you as many clues as you need.)

2.1 (o-oh):

35. If a mother deer is called a doe, what would you call a baby deer? Starts with an "f". [FAWN]

36. What's another word for sunrise, or for the first part of the day when the sun's just coming up? [DAWN]
37. Do those words rhyme? (Could you use them to rhyme in a poem?)
38. Can you think of any boy's names that rhyme with those words? [DON, RON, JOHN?]
If necessary, elicit:
DON: What's the first name of Walt Disney's famous duck? What's short for that?
39. Does that name sound the same as the word for sunrise you just said? (If someone said those two words to you over the phone, could you tell them apart?)
40. Can you say them again for me and tell me which one is which? (If necessary: which one was first?)
41. What's another boy's name that starts with D and ends with N? [DAN]
42. What's the past tense of catch? (Like if today I catch the ball, yesterday I ...?)
[CAUGHT]
43. What's the opposite of cold? [HOT]
44. Do those words rhyme?
45. Can you say them for me one more time?
46. What's the opposite of upset or anxious that starts with a "C"? [CALM]
47. What's the ending of a web address? For example: www dot something [DOT COM]
48. Does the very end of a web address sound like the word for not anxious? Can you say them again and tell me which is which?

2.2 (i-e/_N):

49. What would you use to sign a check with? [PEN]
50. What would you use to fasten a cloth diaper? (A safety ...) [PIN]
51. Do those words sound the same to you?
52. Say them again for me and tell me which one's which.

2.3 (tense/lax contrasts before /l/):

53. What's the opposite of empty? [FULL]
54. What's another word for an idiot or a stupid person? (Begins with F as in Frank).
[FOOL]
55. Do those words sound the same to you?
56. Say them again for me and tell me which one's which.
57. What happens when a knife gets used a lot? The opposite of sharp? [DULL]
58. What's the opposite of push? [PULL]
59. Do those words rhyme for you?
60. What's the opposite of to empty? [to FILL]
61. What is the verb that means you experience emotions or pain that starts with an F?
[FEEL]
62. Do those words sound the same to you?
63. Say them again for me and tell me which one's which.
64. If you're talking about grades in school, what's the opposite of pass? [FAIL]
65. What's the past tense of fall? (Like if today I fall, yesterday I ...) [FELL]
66. Do those words sound the same to you?
67. Say them again for me and tell me which one's which.

68. What's the male counterpart of a cow? [BULL]
69. And what's the dish you eat cereal out of in the morning? [BOWL]
70. Do those words sound the same to you?
71. Say them again for me and tell me which one's which.

2.4 (uw-juw/[+cor]_):

72. If you're getting married, what do you say when you're asked if you take the other person to be your wife or husband? [DO]
73. What do you call the moisture that's on the grass in the early morning? [DEW]
74. Do those words sound the same to you?
75. Say them again for me and tell me which one's which.

3. SEMANTIC DIFFERENTIALS

Now I have a few questions about the meanings of different words. Tell me, in your opinion,

76. What's the difference for you in meaning between a BAG and a SACK?
77. What's the difference between a LABEL and a TAG?
78. What's the difference between a BAD person and an EVIL person?
79. What's the difference between being UNHAPPY and being SAD?

4. SYNTACTIC VARIABLES:

4.1 Now I just have one more section of language questions for you. In this section I'd like to ask you to tell me what you think of a few sentences I'm going to read you. These are sentences that sound fine to people in some parts of the country but a little strange to people in other parts of the country. For each sentence I read you, I'd like you to tell me whether you think it sounds like something you could say yourself, or something you've heard around your area but you wouldn't say, or something you've never heard before. OK? So here's the first one:

80. What if there were crumbs on the kitchen floor and someone said, "the floor needs swept"?
81. What if a mother said to her child, "your hair needs cut"?
82. What if someone asked you, "I'm going to the store; d'you wanna come with?"
83. What if someone asked, "Do you want that I should go downtown today?"
84. What if someone asked, "Would you like for me to pick up some milk on the way home?"
85. What if you said to someone, "He a doctor."?
86. What if you said to someone, "She be poor."
87. What if you said to someone, "She be late."

4.2 SYNTACTIC VARIATION MODULE (Positive anymore) (This will replace 4.1 when used.)

4.2.1 Fill-in-the-blanks

Now I'm going to read some sentences and ask you to fill in the blanks with all the words you think would make sense. Okay?

In case of derailment: Say, "Compare the past, how things used to be, to the present. Is there something that could go in the blank that contrasts the way things were before and the way they are at this point in time?"

1. In the past, people could find jobs easily. Everyone is struggling_____.
2. The roads used to be terrible around here. _____ they are pretty decent.
3. Ten years ago food was affordable. Food _____ is so expensive.
4. When I was younger I didn't feel safe in this neighborhood. The neighborhood _____ is pretty safe.

5. This block used to have nice people of all different ages. Unfortunately it's all rude college students living here _____.
6. Frozen food used to be pretty disgusting. But it can be pretty good _____.

4.2.2 Judgment

Now I just have another section of language questions for you. In this section I'd like to ask you to tell me what you think of a few sentences I'm going to read you. These are sentences that sound fine to people in some parts of the country but a little strange to people in other parts of the country. For each sentence I read you, I'd like you to tell me whether you think it sounds like something you could say yourself, or something you've heard around your area but you wouldn't say, or something you've never heard before. I'd also like you to tell me what the sentence means in your own words. OK? So here's the first one: (If subjects do not accept a phrase, ask, "Would it change anything if I said it differently?")

7. What if someone said, "John liked his dog anymore, so he gave it a bone last week."
8. What if someone asked, "Do you ski anymore?"
9. What if you were looking at the price of a new car and someone said, "Boy, cars are sure expensive anymore!"?
10. What if the economy in a city changed from how it was before and someone said, "It's really hard to find a good job anymore"?
11. What if someone said, "Because of the traffic, I hate going downtown anymore."?
12. What if someone asked, referring to pagers, "Who buys those anymore?"
13. What if someone said, "Anymore, the trails are very well maintained"?
- a. Would it change anything if I gave some context? For example if someone was talking about hiking near their town?
14. What if you were looking at old family pictures with toys in them from when you were a child and someone said, "I wonder if they sell those anymore"?
15. What if someone said, "Anymore I don't hike much"?
- b. Would it change anything if I gave some context? For example if someone had hurt their knee?
16. What if someone asked, "Do you eat red meat?" and someone else replied, "Anymore"?
17. What if someone said, "Kids anymore have such a sense of entitlement"?
18. What if someone said, "Anymore, the square footage of apartments is so small"?
- c. Would it change anything if I gave some context? For example if someone was talking about how apartments used to be really big?
19. What if someone said, "It's getting to be a nice campus anymore"?
20. What if someone said, referring to their grandparents' Christmas habit of leaving carrots outside for reindeer, "They still use that custom anymore"?
21. What if someone said, referring to someone who lived in their town when they were young, "I doubt that she lives here anymore"?
- a. What about, "I think that she lives here anymore"?
22. What if someone was talking about their friend John, and said, "John smokes anymore"?
- d. How about, "John smokes a lot anymore"? (Does one sound better?)
23. What if someone was talking about their linguist friend Laura, and said, "Laura isn't speaking French anymore"?
- e. How about, "Laura is speaking French anymore"? (If the subject accepts it, ask, "Can she be speaking French now?")
- f. How about, "Laura is speaking a lot of French anymore"? (If the subject accepts it, ask, "Can she be speaking French now?"); (Does a or b sound better?)
24. What if someone was talking about their sibling, and said, "He's too smart to eat junk food anymore"?
25. What if someone said, "Everyone listens to Justin Bieber anymore"?

26. What if someone was talking about an actor who got caught wearing sweatpants in public, and said, “I don’t think that he’ll do that anymore”?
27. What if someone said, “Few children go trick-or-treating anymore”?
28. What if someone said, “Kids are all spoiled anymore”?
29. What if someone said, “Birds anymore don’t fly south in the winter”?
30. What if someone was talking about Discovery Park (or a local park) and said, “It’s a nice park anymore”?
31. What if someone was talking about their brother and said, “Oh yeah, he’s driving anymore”?
(If the subject accepts it, ask, “Can he be driving right now?”)
32. What if someone said, “Kids anymore are very well-behaved”?
33. What if someone was talking about climate change and said, “Seattle will be a drier city anymore”?

4.2.3: Open-ended questions

Informal discussion of the variable, using these prompts.

158. What does anymore mean?
159. Tell me the different ways and places in a sentence you can use it.
160. Which kinds of sentences with anymore did you like most? Least? Why do you think that is?

Instructions for Syntactic Variation Module (positive anymore) only: Now I’d like you to read this story, then put it away and summarize it back to me, in your own words. (If necessary, prompt with: “What did the cat say when she couldn’t find the mice?” Make sure they’re not looking at the story and just reading the phrase back.)

READING PASSAGE

From Aesop's Fables "The Cat and the Mice"

Once upon a time, a cat passed by a big house that was full of mice. Ever since she was a kitten, the cat had thought to herself, "I would be happy in that home." So, the very next evening, she moved in with the family that lived in the house. Then, the fight between the cat and the mice began.

At first, the mice avoided the cat like the plague, huddling under the deck and trying not to make a peep. But the cat simply hid in a corner behind a sack of bagels and waited calmly for them to take the bait. The mice zigged and zagged down the hall, but they only had a vague idea where the cat was hidden. When she caught one, she would pen the mouse up in the corner between her paws. The mice would beg for mercy and kick their legs with all their strength. Their nagging cries made quite a din. But, the cat would simply pin them against the wall of her den and eat them up anyway.

This went on for six days, until finally the mice couldn't stand it anymore. Feeling angry, they decided to go into their holes and stay there for a week. This way, bragged the mice, the mean old cat would never catch them. "That's not fair," said the cat to herself, as she drank the pool of milk in her bowl. "Mice are so hard to find anymore. Now the only thing to do is to pull them out by a trick — then I can bake a fine mouse pie and eat like a king again." So, she thought for a while, paced the length of the room, and hatched a plan. Eager to test her new scheme, she climbed up the wall and let herself hang down by her back legs from a peg, pretending to be dead.

By and by, a mouse peeked his nose out, looking for food. The mouse paused when it saw the cat hanging there like a spider on a web. "Gosh!" the mouse cried. "You can't fool us, you mangy cat! You can pretend to be a bag of bones hanging there until next Tuesday if you like, but don't think you'll catch us coming anywhere near you."

If you are wise, you will not be fooled by the innocent actions of those you once found to be dangerous.
