

Photo by My Nue

Dream

By: My Nue

Staring out into the waters
I am captivated by the sea
I don't want to be bothered
Cause in my world I'm flying

As I watch the ripples swim by
I am thinking of the weather
Watching all those seagulls fly
Nothing could be better

Can you guess what I am thinking?
Why I am so isolated?
Now the sunlight is finally shrinking
The colors of me are faded

I am alone on this beach
Thinking of many things
Now watch how the sky turns peach
It's all so fascinating

What else lingers beyond these waters?
Making all of these waves
Carrying the winds together
Far far away

The smell of salt flows in the air
As the moon starts to appear
Leaving this view I would not dare
These memories I will not share

Oh how the colors combine
Leaving me as a silhouette
There isn't that much time
Until the sun sets

Staring out into the waters
I am captivated by the sea
I don't want to be bothered
Cause in my world I'm flying

As I watch the ripples swim by
I am thinking of the weather
Watching all these seagulls fly
Nothing can be better