

Transitioning Skills to Adulthood

The UW Autism Center is excited to present a workshop for parents, teachers, and providers to learn practical strategies to help guide individuals with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) and increase their independence.

In this workshop, participants will learn strategies to increase independence in young adults experiencing ASD and strategies to transition those skills into adulthood.

Participants will learn:

- How to identify needs and create programs to address those needs
- How to identify student strengths and build on those strengths to encourage independence
- Strategies to transition those skills to adulthood
