Navigating Your Young Child's Autism Diagnosis

The time immediately following the diagnosis of autism can be a very tumultuous time for parents. Sifting through recommendations, calling and leaving messages, feeling confused about which steps to take first-- all of these and more can leave parents feeling frustrated and discouraged. Across 4 sessions, this on-line parent course is designed to help family members feel supported, while giving practice tools to help them navigate the time after an initial autism diagnosis. Together, we will discuss recommendations, share tips, and learn ideas for interacting with your child in a playful and fun way.
