

When Your Patient Thinks They're Autistic

As awareness of autism increases, more and more people are wondering whether the diagnosis fits them. Many doctors, therapists, case managers, and others find themselves speaking with patients who have self-identified as autistic or want a referral for evaluation. This webinar will equip professionals to better navigate these discussions, including cases where autism does not seem likely as well as cases where it does.

Course Objectives:

- Recognize how autism may present differently than the stereotypical image
- Be aware of barriers that limit adult access to formal autism evaluations
- Learn ways to best assist patients self-identified as autistic

Who should attend: Medical, mental health, and other professionals whose patients have brought up the possibility of autism

Instructor: Lucas Harrington, PsyD
