Could I Be Autistic?
A Webinar for the Self-Diagnosed or Wondering

Have you felt different from other people your entire life? Did learning about autism seem to explain a lot about you? Led by autistic psychologist Dr. Lucas Harrington, this webinar will help you consider the pros and cons of seeking a formal autism evaluation and then provide strategies and resources you can use without an official diagnosis.

Course Objectives:
• Discover different ways to think about autism, from the community's self-description to the way it is defined in the diagnostic manual
• Learn about possible benefits of and barriers to pursuing a formal autism evaluation
• Become aware of resources and strategies that can help participants without an official diagnosis of autism

Who should attend: Teenagers or adults who have self-diagnosed as autistic or wonder if they are autistic

Content level: Beginner
Instructor: Lucas Harrington, PsyD
