

Contracts

A contract is an agreement to do something pleasant for someone when that person does something pleasing to you. Contracts should specify exactly what each person will do.

Example contracts

1. I'll wash your clothes if you put them in the clothes hamper.
2. If you get up and are dressed by 7:30, I'll cook your breakfast.
3. If you put your toys away when you're through playing with them, I'll read you a story before bed.
4. If you do what I ask with less than three reminders a day, I'll let you stay up a half-hour later than usual.
